Bus Driver Tarpley Tells Jury He Found Liquor
in Poole Car After
Crash, Then Hid Bottle.

BY L. A. FARRELL,
Staff Correspondent.

ADEL, Ga., Feb. 10.—The Cook superior court jury, trying Patrolman A. Douglas Poole for murder, Thursday will hear the first story of a participant in the crash which cost two lives when E. D. Rivers Jr., of Lakeland, climaxed the state's case with his appearance on the stand. Poole, for the first time, also will tell from his lips his version of the accident which brought him before the bar of justice, surrounded by a galaxy of Georgia's ablest lawyers, fighting for his liberty and perhaps his life.

The prosecution, having neared completion of the presentation of direct testimony, tonight was ready to put on the stand young Rivers, a son of the former senator and former candidate for governor, together with the other survivors of the fatal crash, including Henry C. Morgan, chief of detectives, and Lamar Poole's son, to give tomorrow to the jury the version of the crash which they believe is the true one, and to decide on his guilt or innocence in the death of Miss Patterson.

Prosecution Moves Swiftly.
Today the prosecution moved swiftly toward the finish of its long line of direct testimony witnesses. But it was mindful that Poole will offer a strong and a bitter fight against the charges against him and the solicitor-general, Henry C. Morgan, and his chief advisor, former Senator Rivers, withheld from the stand their chief witnesses—those who lived to tell the tale of the crash, which snuffed out the lives of the two fellow passengers.

For Solicitor-General Morgan and Senator Rivers want the jury to hear from the driver of the smaller car, and his companion on the day they listen to Poole, so that when they sleep under guard of a bailiff of the court they will have both sides of the issue over which to ponder. That the prosecution was fighting to keep its chief witnesses from telling their stories before adjournment early tonight was quite evident when every effort was made to draw out the testimony of witnesses offered to establish the fact that Miss Patterson, for whose death Poole is now on trial, succumbed to her injuries and other technical and minor details which may be presented at any time before the state rests its case.

Seek to Prove Poole Drunk.
By mid-afternoon the prosecution had reached a point where all of its preliminary witnesses gave those whose testimony was more or less perfunctory had been heard, the jury having been given over chiefly to the quantity of evidence to support the contention made yesterday that Patrolman Poole and his companion, Patrolman H. D. Gaines, also of Atlanta, had been drinking considerably on their way from Atlanta to the point a mile south of Cecil where the crash occurred.

All of the witnesses summoned up to that time had been asked to tell the jury if they had seen the two accused patrolmen taking a drink or if in their opinion Poole and Gaines were drunk at the time of the crash.

A majority of the witnesses had lived up to the state's fullest expectations, several asserting unequivocally that the chief of detectives' son was in a drunken stupor immediately after the accident and withholding all else.

NEW HEAT RECORD PREDICTED TODAY; MERCURY HITS 76

Mark of 1891 in Prospect; Entire South Enjoys Balmier Weather.

Weather prognosticators perspired over their thermometers Wednesday night as summer-time took advantage of winter's most serious default in the south in years.

And it will be hotter today, weather bureau officials said.

From practically every southern city came the report: "Mercury still rising."

In Atlanta a maximum of 76 degrees was recorded Wednesday, with Forecaster von Hermann predicting a new all-time high mark for today. The thermometer will start at 65 degrees, he forecast, and rise until it passes the record set February 10, 1891, when it reached 78.2 degrees.

The official forecast for Atlanta today is "fair and very much warmer."

Wednesday the mercury started from a low of 53 degrees and kept rising until the 76-degree mark was reached.

New Orleans had the highest reading Wednesday, with 83 degrees, only a fraction lower than the all-time February record of 83.6 degrees, established last Monday.

Montgomery, Ala., and Macon, Ga., were next with an official maximum of 81 degrees, and Savannah, Ga., followed with a high of 78.

Little Rock, Ark., recorded 77, as did Birmingham, the latter noting that the mercury was still rising.

Memphis, Tenn., with a high of 76, showed a new record, the reading was 30 degrees above normal.

Chattanooga, Tenn., also had 76, but Mobile, Ala., was not so hot with a 73 at noon.

The new wave was not so pronounced in the Carolinas and Virginia, Charlotte registering a high of 67 and Richmond going to 60 degrees.

State's Witnesses in Poole Trial at Adel

Witnesses called by the state who already have testified or who are yet to appear against A. Douglas Poole, Atlanta patrolman, on trial at Adel on a murder charge, are shown in the group above. At the upper left is John Greer Jr., Harding (Ga.) school teacher, whose testimony was heard during Tuesday's session. At the upper right are E. D. Rivers Jr., driver of the machine which was struck by Poole's car, and George D. Stewart, one of the occupants of the ill-fated Rivers auto. Both will testify today. At the bottom are Alaine Corbett, Hahira youth; A. L. Webb, Cordele traveling salesman, both of whom appeared on the stand Wednesday, and Charles Strickland, of Fort Benning, who gave his testimony Tuesday. — Staff photos by Kenneth Rogers.

FLORIDANS BACK ROOSEVELT MOVE

Nomination of Southerner for Vice President Is Recommended.

By the Associated Press.

In isolated sections of the country, but centering principally along the Atlantic seaboard, new depth was added yesterday to the stewing hodgepodge of presidential politics.

Usually standing as a unit, Tammany Hall exuded indications that a three-way split in which Smith-Roosevelt-Walker factions are figuring had the wigwag unbalanced.

Political observers believe that on the present basis, no one candidate can count on all of New York city's convention votes. Both Alfred E. Smith and Franklin D. Roosevelt have their powerful support, with Mayor Walker perhaps holding the balance of power and no indication where it might finally fall.

The New York governor, who holds 22 instructed delegates from Alaska and Washington state now, the only ones thus far instructed, was endorsed in Florida by the executive committee of the first congressional district.

Smith was praised for his statement saying he would make no effort to corral delegates prior to the convention, and selection of the southern man for the vice presidential nomination was urged.

In New Hampshire, where the primary March 8, is to provide the first test of strength between the two New York leaders, Roosevelt-pledged leaders gathered under Robert Jackson, national committeeman, to work out a harmony program.

An alignment that may carry the same opposing forces into conflict in the lower house.

Senator Henry G. Schackner, New York democrat, introduced several amendments intended to make the investigation open to the public, non-political in character and finally to include two democrats. The republican steam roller flattened them out.

All of the five members of the investigating committee would be re-published.

Senator John J. McNaboe, Tammany democrat, warned the republicans "on next election day you will find out how smart you are."

Minister Is Divorced On Non-Support Charge

MINDEN, Nev., Feb. 10.—(P)—The Rev. Ulysses Grant Warren, prominent churchman of New York and Philadelphia, lost to his wife, Edith Taylor Warren, in their contested divorce case today.

The ambassador's speech, the brief decree to divorce Warren on her complaint charging non-support and extreme cruelty. Dr. Warren had contested the action on grounds of desertion.

Mrs. Warren is a cousin of Mrs. W. B. Storey, of Chicago, wife of the president of the Santa Fe railroad. In a suit filed in Chicago recently, Dr. Warren charged the Storeys with having alienated his wife's affections.

TAYLOR IS FACING GANG TERM TODAY

Walter C. Taylor, convicted on a charge of bribery in connection with the issuance of a auctioneer's license to Mike Ellman, and sentenced to serve 12 months on the chain gang, Wednesday night faced the possibility of beginning his sentence today.

At midnight Wednesday a supersedeas, granted for 30 days by Judge Edgar E. Fomeroy, in order that Taylor's attorneys might have an opportunity to appeal the case to the supreme court of the United States, expired.

The order by Judge Fomeroy set out that the supersedeas was to continue until after the case was heard in the United States supreme court, provided it was appealed. Otherwise the supersedeas was to expire on Wednesday, February 10.

Close check Wednesday night showed.

Borah, Fess in Fiery Debate On Direct Relief for Jobless

BY NATHAN ROBERTSON.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—(P)—In one of the senate's most spectacular debates, Borah, of Idaho, today took issue with the Hoover administration over direct relief aid for the unemployed and demanded immediate protection of the "hungry."

Amid frequent outbursts of applause from the gallery, Borah challenged Fess, of Ohio, who came forward with the administration's answer to the La Follette-Costigan $375,000,000 bill terming it "the opening wedge to the dole."

"A government which will not protect those who protect it," thundered Borah, "is flying a flag which is a dirty rag, contaminating the air in which it flies."

"If we leave this relief problem to the hands of the politicians," concluded Fess, "God help America!"

For more than two hours the scholarly Fess and the powerful Borah duelled on the republican side of the chamber, railing their desks and pounding out questions and answers in raised voices.

An intent membership filled the floor and listened to the debate. Several times the applause of the gallery drowned out attempts of the presiding officer to quell it. Once no attempt was made to check the demonstration.

A vote on the issue went over until tomorrow.

JAPAN, ITALY JOIN ARMS CUT PLEA

Japanese Ambassador
Says Tokyo Eager To Aid Disarmament Cause.

BY ANDRUE BERDING.

GENEVA, Feb. 10.—(P)—Japan added her voice today to the call for disarmament.

Tsuneko Matsudaira, Japanese ambassador at London and chief of the Tokyo delegation to the world disarmament conference, asserted in a declaration of policy that "notwithstanding the unfortunate situation in the far east Japan is as eager as ever to further the cause of disarmament."

The ambassador's speech, the brief address by any great power representative, was received in lukewarm fashion in contrast with the ovation accorded Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, who presided to the delegates a broad program for lessening the burden of war preparations.

Signor Grandi, the "baby" of the conference, by virtue of the fact that he is only 36 years old, advocated widening the London naval agreement by the inclusion of France and Italy toward that end. He stated Italy's willingness to abolish capital ships, submarines and bombing planes, and demanded that the former allies disarm in the same measure as Germany has been forced to do.

The conference also heard Foreign Minister August Zaleski, of Poland, who declared that Poland was ready to disarm.

Convicted as Rum Aid, Sheriff Is Re-elected

HINESVILLE, Ga., Feb. 10.—(P)—A Georgia sheriff, recently convicted of conspiracy to aid liquor runners, was re-elected today by a vote almost equal to the total of his two opponents.

Sheriff M. F. Clark, of Liberty county, was convicted of conspiracy in federal court at Savannah and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary at Atlanta. He appealed his case and began a fight for re-election.

Today Clark received 359 votes to the 273 for G. A. May and 124 for L. H. Crowley.

The only woman who ever offered for public office in the county, Miss Laura M. Fraser, a candidate against H. A. Bacon, incumbent, for superintendent of county schools, failed to receive a vote.

LEADERS AGREE ON BANKING BILL TO RELEASE GOLD

Hoover and Congress
Chiefs in Accord on Measure To Broaden
Base for Reserve Loans.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—(P)—Release of one billion dollars in "free gold" now available in the treasury is proposed in the banking bill agreed upon today between President Hoover and congressional leaders.

Broad expansion of the paper eligible for rediscounting by the federal reserve system also is provided, thus opening new avenues of credit to the banks.

Senate and house banking leaders in a joint statement issued tonight said the provision for releasing the gold "will make the system's large supply of gold more useful as a basis for credit."

"It will at once increase the system's free gold by nearly one billion dollars," the statement said.

The statement said: "The bill will be introduced into the senate by Senator Glass and by Representative Steagall in the house of representatives which will improve the facilities of access to the member banks to the reserve banks by providing for the advancement of funds by the federal reserve banks to member banks that have no further credit in case where by reason of the security of sound assets not now technically eligible for discount, member banks may obtain these advances upon proper safeguards either upon the indorsement of other member banks or, in unusual cases, without such indorsement. Poole and Rivers, Drivers In Crash, Take Stand Today

Drivers in Death Crash Will Offer Respective Versions of Fatal Accident.

For the purpose of eliciting from them on cross-examination that they knew or learned since that he was seriously injured himself in the crash and had spent almost a week under guard in a Valdosta hospital recuperating.

Poole's Version Unknown.

The story to be told by young Rivers and his surviving companions, George Stewart, of Lawrence, and Miss Elizabeth Cannon, of that place, is well known, as it was made public at the time of the accident. Just what will be Poole's defense, however, and what supporting testimony will be offered by the defense remains almost as deep a secret as they were the day of the crash.

The accused policemen have not made a statement regarding the accident, except to say in a few words that they were not to blame. On the other hand, statements from young Rivers and his companions have been numerous, as have been the reports of various police agencies investigating the case, all of them blaming Poole directly and Gaines indirectly for the accident.

Tells of Finding Liquor.

The state paved the way for bringing its case to a close by presenting the testimony of Frank Tarpley, Greysboro bus driver. Mr. W. Austin, Adel chiropractor; T. M. Vinson, Valdosta druggist; and R. L. McMichael, an Atlanta traveling salesman, who ran upon the scene of the accident en route home from Tallahassee, Fla.

Of these the testimony of Tarpley was the most damaging. He asserted that on investigating the circumstances surrounding the accident he found a bottle in Poole's car and expressed his belief that the bottle contained liquor which was the cause of the crash.

The defense sought strenuously to keep this statement from going into the record and on cross-examination vigorously attacked Tarpley's statement that he failed to notify the police of his find and concealed the liquor in some loose dirt on the side of the road near the scene of the crash.

The testimony of Dr. Austin, McMichael and Vinson was offered in corroboration of evidence thus far submitted to the jury and in an effort to prove the state's contention that Poole was drunk at the time of the crash and Gaines, if not actually drunk, was "under the influence of intoxicating liquor."

Arrived Soon After Crash.

The bus driver, whose home is in Atlanta, was considered the most important witness offered thus far by the prosecution. He testified that he first saw the speeding Lincoln car north of Adel when it passed his bus, which at that time was making 30 miles an hour, and that he reached the scene of the crash a few minutes after it happened.

In answer to questions from Solicitor-General Morgan, he said that he visited Poole's car with a first aid kit a minute or two after reaching the scene and that he found Poole in a state of unconsciousness induced by over-indulgence in liquor.

"Did you search the car while you were at Poole's side?" the prosecutor asked.

"Yes," the witness responded. "What did you find?" Morgan then requested.

"Underneath the front seat against the cushion I found a small bottle apparently about a pint in size. In it was an ounce or two of whiskey," the bus driver told the jury.

"What did you do with it?" was the next question.

"I threw it into the dirt and with my shoe kicked enough of the loose earth over it to get it out of sight," Tarpley said.

"Why did you do that?"

The driver replied that his next answer with an explanation as to the rules of the Greysboro company regarding accidents.

He said that the drivers in the employ of the company were under instructions to stop at the scene of all accidents and give whatever assistance they found necessary. Also they are directed, he said, to be sure to get all accidents to which they give service or through which they are delayed, resulting in their failure to keep on schedule.

Tarpley explained that as soon as he drove up to the scene of the Poole-Rivers crash, he realized that at least two of those injured were seriously hurt, so seriously that his first-aid kit would be of little service, but that he determined to do what he could and make provisions for removing the victims to the hospital.

After attending to Miss Patterson, Miss Cannon, young Patterson and Rivers, he said he went to Poole's car to see what he could do.

Found Gaines by Car.

"I found Gaines standing beside the car and Poole slumped over the front seat," he responded in direct answer to Morgan's question.

"I asked Gaines if he was all right, and he answered that he was. I then turned my attention to Poole. He helped Gaines straighten him up a bit in his seat and in answer to a question Poole indicated that he was injured about his chest.

"I started to feel the chest and found a metal badge pinned to his clothing. Investigating I found that it was a badge of the Atlanta police department. Realizing that he was in for serious trouble if the liquor was found on him, I determined to get rid of it and say nothing."

"Just why did you determine to get rid of the liquor?" the prosecutor insisted.

"I knew that if the liquor was found he would be in for some trouble and I just hated to see two At-

Hoarder Puts $2,900 Again in Circulation

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Feb. 10. (UP)—Apparently heeding President Hoover's plea against hoarding, a man entered the Simmons National bank today with a musty, worn sack of currency to deposit. The sack, which bore evidence of having been buried in the ground, contained $2,900 in five, ten and twenty-dollar notes.

Atlanta policemen get into trouble," the witness said. "I did not know Poole and there was only a small amount of liquor."

"Did you do anything to help Poole?"

"Moved injured to bus."

"Not much," Gaines said. "I was all right. I realized the seriousness of the injuries of the other persons and went back to my bus to make arrangements to carry those that I could to a hospital in Valdosta. I got back to the bus and moved the passengers to the rear seats and helped other people get into the car. I carried Poole, Miss Patterson and Miss Cannon to the bus. We tried to get Mr. Rivers into it also but his leg appeared to be badly hurt and the other three took up considerable room. We decided not to take him as he had no place to stretch the leg. I made arrangements for him to go into Valdosta in another car and started off with those that I had in my bus."

On cross-examination Tarpley revealed that he made no mention of the finding of the liquor until last week, after he had appeared before the grand jury which voted murder indictments against Poole and Gaines.

Answering questions of Mr. Wilcox, he said that on his return to Atlanta he filed a report of the accident and his participation in aiding the injured without mentioning that he found the liquor or that he found Poole in that condition he believed to have been caused by liquor. This drew from Mr. Wilcox a scathing denunciation.

"Why didn't you tell that to the grand jury?" the chief of defense counsel demanded.

"I was asked no questions along that line," the witness replied. "When you were sworn were not you sworn to tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth?"

"Then why didn't you tell the whole truth?"

"Because I didn't want to say anything about it. As a prosecutor, I would not have said anything about it to Solicitor-General Morgan later if it had not been for an argument I had with another bus driver in Atlanta about it."

Wilcox did not question the witness about the argument with the other driver, but he did ask Tarpley if he had been passing a short time previously by the Rivers car which was traveling at a normal rate of speed and keeping to the right side of the highway. He said that he was traveling not more than 30 miles an hour and that in his opinion the Rivers car was not passing more than five or ten miles an hour faster.

He asserted that he investigated the circumstances immediately after the crash and that he found Poole in a state of unconsciousness induced by over-indulgence in liquor.

Eye-Witness Testifies. Dr. Austin, who, with his wife and child, was returning from Habira to his home at the time of the accident, furnished the jury with the first eye-witness account of the crash obtained from a person who was viewing it from the scene and following in the path of the Rivers car.

Anticipating that Poole in his statement to the jury and in his testimony to be presented by the defense, will claim that the Rivers car was speeding and on the wrong side of the road, Dr. Austin testified that he saw the Lincoln car coming from the south and which was traveling slowly and which overtook after being struck by the Rivers car.

"I was driving very slowly. My car was on the left side of the road, over 25 or 30 miles an hour. I was attracted by the Rivers car because it was a new one and I had not seen one like it before. As it went around me I decided to put on over in an effort to get another view of the car and its equipment."

Like A. I. Webb, traveling salesman, and Aldine Corbett, Habira, he testified earlier in the day that the Rivers car was traveling slowly and was overtaking after being struck by the Rivers car.

200 yards before it was in the collision," the witness testified.

"I was driving very slowly. My car was on the left side of the road, over 25 or 30 miles an hour. I was attracted by the Rivers car because it was a new one and I had not seen one like it before. As it went around me I decided to put on over in an effort to get another view of the car and its equipment."

me I observed the two after it passed me on the highway and a second later saw the Lincoln nose out from the car. In a flash there was a collision. The new car of Rivers was hurled back after the impact and it plunged into the side of the Ford. The Ford turned over on the side of the road and the Rivers car came to rest in the center. The Lincoln twisted about a bit and settled, heading into the center of the road, facing the south. The Ford was on its side on the left-hand side of the highway. I immediately applied the brakes, pulled over to the side of the road and heard the sound of a car hitting. As soon as I got out I heard that the car was not seriously hurt as his car was not hit and that there were only faint groans from the Rivers car and immediately began to extricate the passengers from it."

Placed Injured on the Ground. "What did you do after you had taken the passengers from the Rivers car?" Morgan asked the witness.

"I laid them out on the ground and began to go over them as best I could. I am not a physician and had nothing to do to help them, but in the minute the bus drove up and the bus driver brought his first-aid kit. While he and others who appeared quickly on the scene were more seriously injured and needed all the help I could give."

Says Poole Was Drunk. Morgan asked the witness if in his opinion Poole was drunk and what he thought the condition of Gaines was.

"The driver of the car was drunk. I could detect the odor of liquor and Gaines appeared to have been drinking. I do not believe that I could

Short Features of Poole Trial As Observed by Staff Reporter

ADEL, Ga., Feb. 10.—The trial of Patrolman A. Douglas Poole will be the only case on the docket for this term of the Cook county superior court. Judge William Rufus Smith, presiding over the court, today decided there was no hope of ending the case before Saturday night so he ordered all other pending cases put over, to the next term of court.

Colonel Joe Lawrence held the seat of honor today. Colonel Lawrence, editor of the Nashville Herald, paid the trial his first visit and found a crowded press table crowded with alleged gentlemen of the press. So Judge Smith rescued the colonel and took in the proceedings from the judge's bench, the only unobstructed section of the courtroom, it might be added.

The Western Union is one of the busiest places doing overtime because of the trial. The office usually operated by a young woman, Miss Ruby Griffin, now has three operators, Miss Griffin and two assistants. The company sent an extra operator from Jacksonville and another from Valdosta to handle the flood of press copy.

Colonel T. C. Sears, ordinary of Wheeler county for many years, and a grandfather of Miss Winona Patterson, one of the victims of the crash, has been an interested spectator at every session. He sits at the prosecuting table next to former Senator E. D. Rivers.

A. Douglas Poole, the defendant, today received a cheerful message from his brother, Wallace Poole, who is at Bristol, Va., and was unable to come to Adel for the trial. In his telegram, Wallace wished his brother well and said he fondly hoped and expected to see him soon.

In laying its plans for the Atlanta policeman's defense, his attorneys had said they hoped to be able to prove that Rivers' car was speeding and on the wrong side of the road when it was struck by Poole's car.

Webb's defense, however, is that he was driving slowly and was on the right side of the road when he was struck by Poole's car.

Adel, Agog Over Poole Trial, Modern "Deserted Village"

BY L. A. FARRELL, Staff Correspondent. ADEL, Ga., Feb. 10.—Cook county has never had a trial like that of Patrolman A. Douglas Poole, who now faces a jury on charges of murder growing out of the death of Miss Winona Patterson in an automobile crash 7 miles south of here on the afternoon of January 10.

It doesn't take the mind of the oldest inhabitant to recall the fact because there are many residents of this place much older than Cook county, which was formed only a few years back.

Modern Goldsmith or some one even less capable could write a new version of the Deserted Village if he were to visit the business and residential sections of Adel while the sessions of the trial are in progress. Nearly all the citizens—either are jammed into the little courtroom of Judge W. R. Smith or they are making a determined but futile effort to crowd about 3,000 persons into a room built to seat 800 and hold about twice that number under stress.

Long before the judge calls the court to order every morning every available seat and every available bit of standing room are taken. As a matter of fact, it took Judge Smith 10 minutes this morning to fight his way through the crowd in the corridors and out in front of the courthouse to get to his bench. But the judge is taking it good-naturedly and

And the crowd doesn't come from Adel alone, though lots of business houses are closed and the proprietors and workers attending court and schools have recessed in order that the pupils may get any education attached to attending the trial. And children of less than school age are there, too. As a matter of fact, four of the front-row seats today were held down all day by children who, according to the law, had not yet reached the age of reason. They seemed to enjoy all of the commotion.

At any rate, the entire proceedings constitute an event that Adel will long remember. There are folks here from all over south Georgia and there will be plenty of Adel good-will spread over the neighboring counties when the trial is over. The treatment they have been accorded here.

Leaders To Meet Sunday in Macon And Map Legion War on Depression

A meeting of the commanders and adjutants of the 120 posts of the American Legion in Georgia has been called for Sunday morning at Macon to discuss the war on depression in Georgia. The campaign to provide work for a million unemployed men was started at a national movement and the Georgia department will co-operate fully in every detail.

The meeting to be held in Macon will assemble not only the post commanders and adjutants, but also employment officers and American legion committee chairmen. It will be called to order at 11 o'clock (e. s. l.) at the Hotel Dempsey.

Decision to call the Macon meeting was arrived at Wednesday night when the state unemployment committee met at the Anderson Hotel, Commercial Union, Melton, of Griffin, president, Trammell Scott and the executive committee of the Atlanta post were present.

The national plan of the American Legion is to put 1,000,000 men back to work during a 30-day campaign to open Monday morning. The American Legion has declared war on depression and all of its 11,000 posts in the nation will enlist in the war. Henry Stevens, national commander, is chairman of the national employment committee of the Legion, which is composed of 20 leaders in the commercial world. Among others on the committee are General W. W. Atterbury, Commander of the Georgia Field III, Edwin Sullivan, George L. Berry, Melvin Eaton and Lee H. Bristol.

In discussing the program as it will be staged in Georgia, Commander Melton said:

"The Legion in Georgia will do its part towards putting a million men back to work. The plan is to immediately start any civic improvements that they have in mind, thus not only giving employment to men but also to the community at the lowest cost known in years."

"Our set-up is complete. Every post will be enlisted in this great undertaking. It is not the length of the program but the quality of the work that will be the measure of its success."

He said he was opposed to the $378,000,000 direct relief bill as a matter of principle and to the $75,000,000 democratic substitute because he was not convinced of its necessity.

"I am opposed to the federal government's plan of not doing anything because when it does there will be no end," Fess said. "It will be progressive. It is not the length of the first program but the quality of the work that will be the measure of its success."

Fess said the only difference between him and sponsors of the democratic substitute for loans to states was that he was not in favor of the government's plan of not doing anything because when it does there will be no end.

"I don't believe that point has been reached," he added. "Once we start appropriating for the unemployed, the floodgates will be opened. There is no limit to the demands of men out of work. They will demand that the government take care of them and say 'the government owes me a living.'"

HIT BY STREET CAR, MAN, 60, BADLY HURT

J. Silverman, 60 years of age, of 414 Washington street, S. W., was probably seriously injured Wednesday night when he was struck and partly run over by a West Hunter street car at Broad and Marietta streets.

According to S. Purcell, operator of the car, he had just started the car after taking on passengers when the accident occurred. Silverman, he said, had been standing on the walkway platform with other passengers, but when the car started the elderly man stepped directly in front of it and was knocked down before the brakes could be applied.

At Grady hospital it was said Silverman received severe contusions about the face and head, and his condition was not definitely determined.

that the case had not been appealed to the United States supreme court through Judge Richard B. Russell Sr., chief justice of the state supreme court. When the courthouse closed at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon Judge Pomeroy had not been asked to grant an extension on the supersedeas.

The law firm of Arnold, Arnold & Gambrell, representing Taylor, stated Wednesday night that no action had been taken but refused to state that none would be taken for the firm said. "We do not want to appear arbitrary but we have no further statement to make."

The mandate of the Georgia supreme court denying a rehearing has been made a court record and the remittitur in the case is in the office of the clerk of the Fulton superior court. It was stated Wednesday night that when the supersedeas expired at midnight without further action or without the case having been appealed to the supreme court, the sentence would be transmitted to the sheriff's office and that the arrest of Taylor and the subsequent beginning of his service would lie in the hands of Sheriff James I. Lowry.

Deputy Clerk G. M. Paschal, who has charge of the papers in the case, stated Wednesday night: "If no extension is granted and there are no further orders to hold up the sentence, it will be transmitted immediately."

FILED AND SEEN HERE FROM S. S. LOAN BANK

Authority of Banking Department To Borrow for Closed Banks Questioned.

Although banking officials estimate that more than $5,000,000 is tied up in assets of institutions which have been closed and are now in process of liquidation, legal authorities at the state capital yesterday expressed doubt that Georgia state banks would be able to benefit by loans from the two-billion-dollar Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Publication of Senator Walter F. George's statement urging banks "eligible" to make applications for loans caused a flood of inquiries at the office of R. Emmett Gormley, state superintendent of banks, and also brought numerous applications to W. S. McLarin, manager of the Atlanta regional office of the new agency. Practically all the applications, McLarin said, were from individuals who are not eligible to receive loans.

Authority of the state banking department to borrow money for the benefit of creditors of closed banks against assets it held has been questioned by Boyd Sloan, special assistant attorney-general. Sloan holds that the superintendent, as head liquidating agent, stands in the same relation to creditors as court receiver does.

On the other hand, members of the attorney-general's staff were of the opinion that the liquidating agent might sell assets of the bank outright to the new federal agency but doubted whether the new law passed by congress authorized any such purchases.

SAM AIKEN TO HEAR RESENTANCE TODAY

Steadfastly refusing to divulge the manner in which he and Fred Fair obtained saws for their escape from Fulton lower more than year ago, Sam F. Aiken convicted murderer, will be led before Judge John D. Humphries, in Fulton superior court, at 9 o'clock this morning to hear his death sentence pronounced again.

He escaped just 12 days before he was to be electrocuted. Wednesday, following his return here Tuesday night from Houston, Texas, where he was captured, members of the sheriff's force sought in vain to glean information from him concerning the source from which he obtained the saws with which he gained his freedom.

Judge Humphries Wednesday said he would pronounce the death sentence at 9 o'clock this morning before calling the day's calendar of civil business.

STATE DEMOCRATS TO HONOR MRS. ROSS AT MEETING TODAY

Invitations have been extended to all democrats, men and women, to attend the luncheon at the Piedmont hotel at noon today in honor of Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, vice chairman of the democratic national committee, who is in Atlanta in connection with the institute of citizenship being conducted at Emory University. A large number of prominent members of the party in Georgia already have made reservations.

Mrs. Edgar Alexander, democratic national committeewoman for Georgia, will preside at the luncheon, and leaders of the party in Georgia—both men and women—will be seated at the speaker's table. Mrs. Ross is expected to speak on the political and economic situation and the causes leading up to the present great economic depression.

Among the women leaders in the party in Georgia who will attend are Mrs. W. O. Kinney, Macon; Mrs. Mary Jarrett White, Tugalo; Mrs. Lamar Rutherford Latham, Focov; Mrs. James B. Park, Greensboro; Mrs. Horace Newton, Forsyth; and Mrs. E. T. Carlisle, Griffin.

LEGION GEORGIA DAY PLANS PROGRESSING

Atlanta Post No. 1, American Legion, will be one of 120 posts in the state to celebrate "Forward Georgia Day" by holding a Georgia products dinner on the roof garden of the Ansley hotel at 7 o'clock Friday night. Simultaneously the other Legion organizations in the state will celebrate the event.

Joining in the movement to retain for Georgia the $75,000,000 sent annually out of the state for products which can be grown in this state, the Legion invited manufacturers to contribute displays of foodstuffs to be distributed as favors during the dinner. William A. Simon, department manager, said that due to a lack of space only one-tenth of those manufacturers desiring to contribute products could be accommodated.

During the dinner, Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. will speak on "How to Live at Home in Georgia," and his remarks will be broadcast by radio. The public is invited to attend the dinner and reservations may be made at 517 Chamber of Commerce building or telephone Walnut 5515.

SIX MEN INDICTED IN DRY VIOLATION

James H. Schierling, who took out a warrant against Walter Carroll, deputy policeman, for the murder of his brother, Rich Schierling, during a still raid on October 29 of last year, was indicted along with five others Wednesday by the federal grand jury on charges of manufacturing liquor, possessing whisky and with possessing distilling equipment.

The indictment was out of the same still raid during which Rich Schierling was killed. The name of his widow appears on the indictment and on the charge against Carroll as a witness. Those jointly indicted with the second Schierling on the liquor charges were W. D. Phelps, Roy Mabry, Bud Davis, Bob Bradford and Pope Phelps.

W. D. Phelps, an Atlanta man, also is named jointly in a second indictment charging transportation of whisky on September 27, 1929. He is indicted with L. R. Reed and W. A. West.

ATLANTA C. OF C. URGES MARBLE IN POSTOFFICE

Efforts to change specifications for material used in erecting the new Atlanta postoffice building from Indiana limestone to Georgia marble have been started by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, according to a statement Wednesday by Roy LeCraw, president. Senators and congressmen from Georgia and others in Washington were urged in communications to lend their assistance.

Following the appropriation for the building, bids were solicited by the government. When all bids were in the contract was let to a Chicago firm which had bid on both the basis of marble and limestone construction. Because of the difference in cost, limestone specifications were ordered. Requests were made at once to Perry K. Heath, director of public buildings in Washington, and Mr. LeCraw said that Mr. Heath ordered a delay in formally closing the contract. The delay gave the chamber of commerce hopes that Georgia marble may be used. In the letters, Mr. LeCraw set out that unemployment conditions in Georgia would be relieved through use of a local product and that it was far superior as a building material to limestone.

COMMITTEE SEEKS AID FOR CHILDREN

Appeals for a fund of $24,000 to provide for destitute children of the state will be made Friday when a drive to raise the amount will be launched by the Georgia Child Welfare committee through the organization of local committees in every county in the state. The day will be known as "Georgia Child Welfare Day."

The committee sponsoring the drive is made up of the following: Mrs. R. P. Shepard, of Griffin, chairman; Quimby Melton, of Griffin, state commander of the American Legion; Mrs. J. M. MAN IS FATALLY SHOT BY WIFE FOR BURGLAR

Albany, Ga., Feb. 10.—(P)—Oliver C. Sindersine, 35, died in a hospital here today from wounds which his wife said she inflicted last night believing him to be a burglar.

Sheriff R. J. Griffin, of Baker county, to whom Mrs. Sindersine made her statement, said he did not plan to make any charge against the woman unless there are further developments.

Mrs. Sindersine said she was awakened at an early hour to see someone coming through the window of her room. She fired three times while still lying in bed. She told the sheriff she did not know it was her husband until he screamed. The front door of the house was locked.

After firing the shots, Mrs. Sindersine told the sheriff she fled to a negro tenant's house near by and drove the negro's automobile in the direction of Newton. She said she did not know she had shot her husband until she received word he had died.

Besides his widow, Sindersine is survived by three children, one of whom is a baby five weeks old; three sisters, Mrs. R. H. Perry, of Albany; Mrs. Henderson Hall and Mrs. C. S. Adams, both of Newton, and a brother living in South Carolina.

Before her marriage about nine years ago Mrs. Sindersine was Miss Ada Gordon, of Brunswick, a descendant of a prominent Glynn county family.

Funeral arrangements had not been made today.

L. D. PASSMORE RITES HELD AT SYLVESTER

SYLVESTER, Ga., Feb. 10.—L. D. Passmore, 63, died at his home in Sylvester Tuesday after a long illness. He was a native of Macon county, coming to Sylvester in 1901 after his graduation at the law school of Mercer University in the class of 1900.

He was superintendent of schools of Sylvester in 1901 and 1902, and began the practice of law here in 1902, served as county school commissioner for several years, was state senator from this district in 1922 and 1923, and served as representative for one term, 1924 and 1925.

He is survived by his wife, one son, L. L. Passmore, of Memphis, and a daughter, Mrs. W. H. Jones, of Daytona Beach, Fla. Funeral services were conducted at the First Methodist church, of which he was a member, by the Rev. M. L. Wright, of Marshallville, Tuesday afternoon. Interment following in Sylvester cemetery.

ROSSER LITTLE ELECTED MARIETTA BODY HEAD

MARIETTA, Ga., Feb. 10.—Rosser Little, cashier of the First National Bank of Marietta, was elected chairman of the city board of lights and water at the regular February meeting of the board here Tuesday night. He succeeds A. A. Benson whose term expired January 1.

Mr. Benson was then re-elected as a member of the board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Ralph W. Northcutt. Mr. Northcutt was forced to resign by ill health.

MORE FIRES MENACE VALDOSTA TERRITORY

VALDOSTA, Ga., Feb. 10.—Within the past week the Valdosta territory has been ravaged by a greater number of forest fires than in November when the state forest service concentrated its entire forces in this section in fire control work.

The recent fires, some of which are raging yet, have not been in as many large areas, but composed of more fires in smaller areas, though the whole has been of tremendous acreage.

U. S. Egg-Laying Contest Won by Georgia Hens

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 10.—(P)—A pen of Barred Plymouth Rocks owned by Mrs. G. V. Cate was announced today as the winner of high score honors during the four fall and winter months in a national egg-laying contest.

The pen is entered in the sixth Georgia national egg-laying contest at the Georgia State College of Agriculture.

GEORGE FORT MILTON PRESS GROUP SPEAKER

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 10.—George Fort Milton, president and editor of the "Chattanooga News," will be a principal speaker at the Georgia Press Institute which meets at the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism, University of Georgia, February 18-20, according to Professor John E. Devry.

Mr. Milton, who is chairman of the committee on lynching of the southern inter-racial commission, will attend the institute as the guest of the Macon Telegraph.

The Chattanooga editor is widely known through his recent biography, "Andrew Johnson," and through his contributions to such magazines as the Outlook, New Republic, World's Work and Forum-Century.

Mr. Milton was national publicity director for William G. McAdoo, presidential candidate in 1923-1924. He has been president and editor of the Chattanooga News since 1924. He is a member of the National Press Club.

The Georgia Press Institute is designed to assemble practicing newspaper and women teachers of journalism and statesmen for addresses, round-table conferences and lectures on contemporary journalistic problems. Others who will be on the 1932 program are:

Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, who will deliver the George Washington Day address; W. T. Anderson, editor, Macon Telegraph, who will speak on "Freedom of the Press"; Professor Raymond B. Nixon, of Emory University, whose subject will be "The Newspaper As a Social Institution"; Herman Roe, field director of the National Editorial Association; H. T. McIntosh, editor, Albany Herald; Mildred Stedell, Atlanta, and Dr. Gertrude R. Brigham, Brenau College.

CRASH HURTS FATAL TO RAY CITY MAN

VALDOSTA, Ga., Feb. 10.—G. W. Nix, 74, a prominent citizen of Ray City, in Berrien county, died at a local hospital today from injuries received yesterday afternoon when he was knocked down by an automobile on a highway near his home.

Mr. Nix was riding in a car with Harris Jones when they stopped near a stream to put water in the radiator. While Jones was getting the water Nix stepped out and walked around the car and just as he stepped into the roadway he was struck by a car driven by a man named Paulk. In endeavoring to avoid the accident Paulk swerved his car and it crashed into the ditch and turned over.

Paulk freed himself from the overturned car and assisted in picking up the injured man and rendering first aid. Both Paulk and Jones declared the accident was unavoidable.

CRAWFORD COUNTY PRIMARY RESULTS

KNOXVILLE, Ga., Feb. 10.—(P)—Crawford county incumbents were generally unsuccessful in their attempts at re-election today. R. E. Ayers, county commissioner, was the only officer facing opposition to win. Following are the results of the primary:

Sheriff, H. E. Seagler, 588; T. R. Giles, incumbent, 499. Superior court clerk, Barney T. Ware, 608; Hoy Dent, incumbent, 414. County commissioners (three elected): R. E. Ayers, 531; James E. Bryant, 390; John S. Harris, 490; John E. O'Neal, 423; A. W. Childs, incumbent, 420; I. T. Moore, incumbent, 308; G. W. George, 229; Henry J. Horne, 214. The officers unopposed were: A. T. Spillers, coroner; Mrs. L. J. Hancock, ordinary; Mrs. G. D. Walker, superintendent of schools; H. J. McCrary, tax collector; S. S. Wright, tax receiver; W. H. Seagler, treasurer; J. C. Moody, surveyor.

MOBLEY ENTERS RACE FOR SIXTH DISTRICT

Secretary Says Widow of Late Congressman Wants Him Elected.

FORSTH, Ga., Feb. 10.—(P)—W. Carlton Mobley, secretary to the late Congressman Samuel Rutherford, today made public his formal announcement as a candidate to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Rutherford as representative from the sixth district.

He said that since it is the desire of Mrs. Rutherford, widow of the congressman, "that I take this place, I have decided to make the race for congress to fill the unexpired term of one year."

Mr. Mobley said he felt it was his "public duty to make this race because if a new man is elected to serve this term he will not have time to become familiar with the work or to carry out that which has been begun by Mr. Rutherford."

"Mr. Rutherford and I were devoted to each other," he said. "He had my interests at heart, and Mrs. Rutherford states that it will be a consolation to her if his friends should honor his memory in this way. My friends and Mr. Rutherford's friends urge that his wishes be carried out, and that I am the most logical successor for the unexpired term."

He pointed out that the successor to Mr. Rutherford will have less than a year to serve, and that following this, the old sixth district will be split up under the reapportionment plan adopted by the state legislature.

Mr. Mobley said that because of his familiarity with the work begun by Mr. Rutherford he feels that he can "more successfully complete his work than any other person who might be chosen as his successor."

"It will be my purpose if elected," he said, "to serve the people of the sixth district to the very best of my ability. Mr. Rutherford's policies will be my policies, and his plans will be my plans."

MAN ROBBED OF $700 NEAR THOMASVILLE

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 10.—Sheriff Gordon Davis and deputies of this county and officers of neighboring counties in both Georgia and Florida are searching the countryside in an effort to apprehend a white man, reported by N. J. Reichert to have robbed him of about $700 in a hold-up half way between Thomasville and Monticello, Fla.

Reichert drew the money from a Thomasville bank, was overtaken ten miles south of here by a young man in an automobile, who crowded Reichert's car into a ditch, relieved him of his cash and car key and drove rapidly away.

PRIMARY RESULTS IN MORGAN COUNTY

MADISON, Ga., Feb. 10.—A. H. Winter, incumbent, was re-elected ordinary of Morgan county in the democratic primary held here today. He defeated Jack Cunningham and T. H. Holland.

J. B. Dickson, incumbent, won his race for tax receiver, over Walter Knight and Harris Shouse. E. H. Wise, in the race for coroner, defeated the incumbent, Lon Haines. In his race for county school commissioner, the count showed a tie between John Owens and Walter C. Gray. There will be a recount in this race. All other officers were re-elected without opposition. About 1,300 votes were polled.

RETIRED BAR PILOT PASSES AT SAVANNAH

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 10.—(P)—Captain Orlando A. Clark, 82, last of the Savannah bar pilots who saw service during the heyday of sailing vessels at this port died tonight. He began his apprenticeship when 14 years old and became a pilot at 16.

He is survived by his widow, three daughters and three sons. The funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at the residence by Rev. C. A. Linn, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Ascension, and Rev. J. W. Hastings, pastor of the First Christian church. Interment will be in Bonaventure cemetery.

FATE OF ALABAMAN IS IN JURORS' HANDS

GENEVA, Ala., Feb. 10.—(P)—A jury in Geneva circuit court tonight pondered evidence in the trial of H. C. Price Jr., Neville (Ala.) planter's son, charged with murdering his 23-year-old wife, Ethel Price, and driving his auto over a highway embankment to conceal the slaying.

The case was given the jury late today after Solicitor Robert S. Reid had demanded the death penalty for Price. Previously he had reviewed the evidence step by step. The jury was locked up for the night at 10 o'clock.

The new entrants bring the number of candidates for sheriff up to five, with 27 entrants for all offices.

The Poetry Society of Georgia To Honor Joel Chandler Harris

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 10.—(P)—The birthday meeting of the Poetry Society of Georgia will be devoted this year to Joel Chandler Harris (Uncle Remus) in keeping with the policy of the society to honor some Georgian, either a member of the society or one prominent in the field of letters. The meeting will be held at the public library Friday, February 19, the birthday of the society being February 20.

The commemoration of Joel Chandler Harris has special significance in Savannah as Mrs. Harris lived here for a number of years and was associated with the Savannah Morning News, on which he conducted the famous column, "Around About in Georgia." He left here in 1876 to go to The Atlanta Constitution, of which his son, Julian Harris, is now news director.

Mrs. P. N. Strong, chairman of the program committee of the society, will make a few introductory remarks, telling of Mr. Harris' connection here and general remarks on his career.

Julia Collier Harris, wife of Julian Harris, has consented to prepare a paper dealing with some interesting phases of her father's work to be presented as "The Poetic Mind."

W. G. Rutledge, managing editor of the Savannah Evening Press, will relate some amusing anecdotes connected with Mr. Harris' newspaper career here. Mr. Rutledge's interest here, as his father, John W. Rutledge, was a friend of Mr. Harris and the two engaged in correspondence, part of which is now framed and preserved at the Morning News.

The exhibition of a number of articles connected with the life of Joel Chandler Harris in Savannah will lend further interest. Mrs. Craig Barrow, being in charge of the exhibits which include a small publication called "The Countryman," edited by Mr. Harris on a Georgia plantation.

The meeting will be further interesting due to the reading of original poems eligible for the popular prize, and the award of the prize. The society annually presents a book of poems to the winner in this contest, the poems entered being those winning first and second places during the year at society meetings. The contest is conducted by ballot, the members having received the poems for selection.

YOUTH OF SAVANNAH KILLED UNDER TRAIN

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Feb. 10.—(P)—The badly mangled body of a young white man which was identified as T. A. Timmerman, 22, of Savannah, was found this morning on the railroad tracks near Boyce, a suburban station. The victim had apparently been riding on a train and had fallen under the wheels, according to police officials.

The body was removed to a funeral home and his widow, Mrs. Thelma Timmerman, was notified in Savannah. Timmerman had been employed recently by W. H. Spires in Nashville.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLER IS ADJUDGED INSANE

AUGUSTA, Ga., Feb. 10.—(P)—George M. Stanton, charged with embezzlement of $300,000 from two trust estates, was adjudged insane by a jury in superior court today and was ordered committed to the state hospital. Linwood C. Hayne, former mayor of Augusta, and his half-sister, Mary E. Anderson, left the money to establish a hospital in Richmond county for poor patients. Stanton was executor.

SMALLER ASSEMBLY PROPOSED FOR STATE

New Constitution Draft Drastically Reduces Law-Making Personnel.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 10.—Reduction of the general assembly to a senate of 30 members and a house of about 60 members as provided for in a suggested draft of a new constitution for Georgia, as announced by A. R. Lawton Jr., member of the committee appointed by the institute of public affairs of the University of Georgia, to prepare the draft.

Under the suggested scheme, the state would be divided into 30 districts, no district to be less than a whole county and no county to be divided between two or more districts. Each district would have one senator and at least one representative, provision to be made for one representative for each 50,000 of population. The senators and representatives would be elected from the district as a whole and not by rotation among the counties.

Senators would be elected for six years and their terms "staggered," so that they expire in two, four and six years. The legislature would decide whether sessions shall be annual or biennial, with the provision that the general assembly shall sit as long as may be necessary, doing away with the present 60-day session.

The governor would begin a four-year term, being elected in November and taking office in January, when the legislature would hold a brief extraordinary session to canvass the returns, hear contests, etc. The governor would appoint the heads of all executive departments and remove them for cause. All other employees of the state, not specifically provided for in the constitution, would be under civil service.

Throngs Gaze at Body Of Electrocuted Man

ALBANY, Ga., Feb. 10.—(P)—More than a thousand persons visited a local undertaking establishment today to view the body of Major "Slick" Johnson, electrocuted yesterday at Milledgeville for the slaying of his brother-in-law, Tobe Roberts.

Johnson had requested that his body be held at the establishment, expressing the hope youths who viewed it would receive vivid lessons on crime.

The body was buried here this afternoon.

WYLLY HEADS LEAGUE FOR TAX REDUCTION

TENNESSEE, Ga., Feb. 10.—T. C. Wyllie, of Tennessee, was elected president of the Washington County Taxpayers' League at a meeting of the property owners of the county when a permanent organization was perfected. Other officers are A. S. Chamberlain, Barlow, vice president; Dr. W. B. Warthen, Dayton, treasurer; T. R. Dugan, Warthen, secretary. Those named on the executive committee were Dr. T. C. Vickers and Dr. E. S. Peacock, of Harrison; B. J. Tarbuton, Sandersville; John Powell and J. S. Garner, of Warthen; A. S. Chamberlain, Barlow; J. K. Pate, Ridgely; W. B. Warthen, Davisboro; J. R. Giles, Deepstep.

A resolution was adopted and a committee of three appointed to see every county officer and those running for office to ascertain if they would accept a 20 per cent reduction in their salaries. The object of the organization is to suggest methods of economy in the management of county affairs in order to reduce expenses so the tax rate can be lowered.

Senators would be elected for six years and their terms "staggered," so that they expire in two, four and six years. The legislature would decide whether sessions shall be annual or biennial, with the provision that the general assembly shall sit as long as may be necessary, doing away with the present 60-day session.

The governor would begin a four-year term, being elected in November and taking office in January, when the legislature would hold a brief extraordinary session to canvass the returns, hear contests, etc. The governor would appoint the heads of all executive departments and remove them for cause. All other employees of the state, not specifically provided for in the constitution, would be under civil service.

MANCHESTER GRANTED DELAY ON SENTENCING

Counsel for Convicted Youth Seeks Itinerant Showman as Witness.

MACON, Ga., Feb. 10.—(P)—Counsel for Earl Manchester, Rochester, Mich., youth condemned for the murder of James W. Parks here in an insurance plot in 1929, Wednesday obtained a two-day delay in the imposition of a new death sentence to permit them to seek some means of saving his life.

Manchester's sentence has been upheld by the Georgia supreme court and yesterday Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. denied clemency.

He was to have been resented Wednesday but postponement until Friday was announced following a conference of Solicitor Charles H. Garrett and R. Douglas Fagin, defense attorney, with Judge Malcolm D. Jones.

Fagin said he wanted to communicate with Bebe Haggarty, a witness by whom Manchester claims he can establish an alibi. Haggarty, the lawyer said, is in the show business and was last heard from in Cincinnati.

The lawyer said when Manchester is resented he will ask for the maximum time, 20 days. The law provides for execution not less than 10 nor more than 20 days after sentence is pronounced.

A TINY LITTLE FOX
Sidney Fox is just a fraction of an inch under five feet and weighs all of ninety-four pounds. In her first mo'm pitcher, Sidney occupied the star's dressing room. She clicked immediately in UNIVERSAL'S "Strictly Dishonorable" and slays 'em in "MURDERS IN THE RUE MORGUE." Sidney has smoked LUCKIES three years. She's not only been kind to her throat, but also kind to the makers of LUCKY STRIKE in donating that friendly statement.

"I've smoked LUCKIES for three years. I've tried almost every other brand and found that LUCKIES are truly the only cigarettes that do not hurt my throat. BANKHEAD REPORT IS NONCOMMITAL

Hastings Presents List of Alleged Election Violations to Senate Body.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Charges of 50 varieties of law violation in Alabama's 1930 senatorial election were analyzed today in a report to the senate's elections subcommittee on the Heflin-Bankhead contest by its chairman, Senator Hastings, republican, of Delaware.

Hastings stressed some of the charges, made light of others, and offered no comment on the majority.

The report was a summary of the testimony recently taken in Alabama by a commissioner for the committee in regard to the contest brought about in the election of Senator Bankhead, democrat, of Alabama, by former Senator Heflin.

The committee has been studying the case for nearly a year, and last December, after a recount of the votes, Hastings reported to the committee that the election laws were not fully complied with in a single voting place. He also cited conditions indicating the possibility of fraud.

Hastings' report today said the testimony "shows it was not only permissible but it was the practice to pay the poll tax for other persons."

He called attention to Alabama law making anyone doing that guilty of bribery.

On the other hand, Hastings reviewed the testimony of 14 witnesses to the purchase of votes or the offer to purchase votes but said "I do not think the testimony offered upon this point is sufficiently satisfactory to make it appear that the purchase of votes was carried on to such an extent as to seriously affect the election."

Hastings also said he was not greatly impressed with "charges of efforts by corporations to influence their employees to vote for Bankhead."

He reported, however, that there was apparently no dispute on Bankhead's behalf that people were allowed to vote without going to the polls. He cited as "important" testimony that there were 530 names on the list of qualified voters in Houston county than had paid the poll tax.

The report was submitted to counsel for Heflin and Bankhead and will later be used by the committee as the basis for a decision on future procedure in the case.

COUNTY CANDIDATES' HOLD RALLY TONIGHT

Contenders for the seven contested posts for which nominations will be made in the Fulton county democratic primary of March 9 will make the second attempt to win votes at 8 o'clock tonight at a rally to be staged at Bass Junior High school.

Edwin F. Johnson, seeking renomination as in the primary, and his opponent, Guy Moore, will continue their word battle as a feature of the meeting, it was said Wednesday.

Several other aspirants for various positions also will clash at the gathering. The meeting is billed as one in the interest of the candidacy of H. M. Patton for sheriff, but the four other candidates for the post have been invited to appear as well as those in the other races.

There are 21 entrants for the seven positions for which nominations will be made in the primary.

Tonight's session is the first held in Atlanta and much interest is being shown in the various contests.

BODY OF DAN CAREY TO BE BROUGHT HERE

Announcement of funeral arrangements for Dan Carey, of Atlanta, veteran South American newspaper correspondent, will be made upon arrival of the body from Phoenix, Ariz., where he died Sunday as the result of pneumonia.

Wednesday from his widow, Mrs. Helen Carey, informed local friends that she and her two daughters, Helen and Eppie Ann Carey, had left Phoenix Tuesday night on the same train carrying the body.

Carey was Latin-American correspondent for the International News Service.

MRS. GOODSON DIES AS RESULT OF HURTS

Mrs. F. F. Goodson, 72, of 1315 Oakview road, Decatur, died at Emory University hospital Wednesday afternoon as the result of injuries received Sunday when she was struck by a South Decatur street car.

Mrs. Goodson, the widow of the late Joseph E. Goodson, was struck at about 6:15 o'clock Sunday evening when she was crossing the street car tracks at Fifth avenue, in Decatur. Taken to the university hospital it was found she had received critical internal injuries.

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. Goodson will be announced later by H. M. Patterson & Son.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of vim.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomachs. You have thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. It often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, genuine, gentle vegetable extracts, soothing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

AUTOMOBILE LEADERS SEE BUSINESS REVIVAL

Executives Say Their Industry Will Lead Nation Back to Prosperity.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 10.—Three leaders of the automobile world told the committee of 100 here that the automotive industry will lead the way to improved business conditions through replacement of millions of old cars with new models at reduced prices.

The speakers were Albert Erskine, president of the Studebaker corporation; Louis P. Moore, former vice president and chief engineer of the Peerless Motor Car Company, and

Gandhi Spinning Wheel Is Sent to America

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi's own spinning wheel, the one he used before he went to the Poona jail, was waiting for Lillabati and Mariam Ghose, 4 and 7 years old, when they came home from school tonight.

They touched it with mingled delight and awe.

The mahatma promised them the gift several months ago when they crossed the Atlantic with their mother, Mrs. Sallendra Nath Ghose, president of the Indian National Congress of America, to invite Gandhi to America.

Irving J. Reuter, president and general manager of the Oakland Motor Car Company.

Erskine said between 6,000,000 and 23,000,000 cars now in America were built more than seven years ago, and said ruling some of them off the highways would be the basis for business recovery.

FINANCE DEBENTURES SALES CONSIDERED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—(AP)—As a part of the campaign to pull money out of hiding and promptly turn it into the stream of credit, the administration is seriously considering selling Reconstruction Finance Corporation debentures directly to the public in small denominations.

With this in mind Charles Gates Dawes, president of the corporation, and Colonel Frank Knox, head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, have been in frequent conferences. Knox also has discussed the matter with President Hoover and treasury officials.

Before leaving for his home in Chicago today Colonel Knox declined to discuss the plan of his new organization beyond saying that it would be "one you can get your teeth in."

Meantime, applications for corporation loans continued, and a railroad report showed the need of the carriers for a part of the corporation's $2,000,000 resources.

Issued by the Bureau of Railway Economics, maintained here by the railroads, it disclosed that Class 1 roads in 1931 had a net railway operating income of $531,065,960, or a return of 1.98 per cent on their property investment. The net railway operating income for 1930, the report said, was $584,856,141, or a return of 3.36 per cent on the property investment.

The Reconstruction Corporation worked steadily today toward completion of its Washington organization and the setting up of agencies in the various financial centers so that applications for funds can receive prompt consideration.

CONSERVATIVES WIN BY REDUCED MAJORITY

SOUTH CROYDON, England, Feb. 10.—(AP)—The first by-election held since the formation of the present national government Tuesday gave the conservatives (supporting the government) the South Croydon seat in the house of commons by a greatly reduced majority.

The vote was: H. G. Williams, conservative, 19,126; R. P. Messel, labor, 9,180. This gave the government a margin of 9,937 against 30,722 in the last general election.

The labor vote was slightly smaller than it was at the general election, however, the reduced conservative majority being caused by a decrease of more than 20,000 conservative votes since the last contest.

This was ascribed by government sympathizers to general apathy resulting from the realization by the conservatives that they were "bound to win anyway."

J. MITCHELL CHAPPELL IS HONORED BY AD CLUB

Joe Mitchell Chappell, of Boston, editor of the National Magazine, was a dinner guest Wednesday evening at the Atlanta Athletic Club of a group of members of the Atlanta Ad Club and a few friends. The occasion was informal. He came here Wednesday by airplane from New York.

Mr. Chappell will address the local Ad club at Rich's tea room Thursday at 12:30 o'clock on the "Economics of Advertising." He comes to Atlanta as a representative of the Advertising Federation of America.

SPORTS EDITOR KILLED WHEN HIT BY TRAIN

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Hansel Batten, 23, sports editor of the Hattiesburg American, was killed early today when hit by a train within the city limits. Batten was the son of E. T. Batten, postmaster of Hattiesburg. Young Batten formerly was connected with the Shreveport Times and the Arkansas Gazette. Railroad and county officers are investigating the circumstances surrounding his death. A coroner's jury was unable to determine definitely how he met his death and withheld its verdict.

HOUSE BODY TO HEAR BONUS CONTROVERSY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Advocates and opponents of full cash payment of the soldiers' bonus certificates will be heard by the house ways and means committee after it completes drafting the new tax bill.

The decision was made today at an executive session of the committee. Acting chairman Crisp informed representative Patman, democrat, Texas, that his bill to make bonus payments of $2,200,000,000 with a new issue of currency would be considered.

The hearings are to begin late in March.

11 FISHERMEN SAVED FROM DRIFTING ICE

SEBEWAING, Mich., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Eleven fishermen, caught in a break-up of ice, were safe on land today because two of their number braved the icy waters of Saginaw to get boats for their companions, marooned on ice floes.

Grover Pitcher, Sebewaing, and Alvin Ashbawer, Fairgrove, waded a mile to shore through ice-strewn water waist deep to get boats for the others, too far out to save themselves in like manner. The men rescued were afloat four hours.

ATLANTA, GA., FEB. 11, 1932.

THE RECONSTRUCTION FUNDS.

The first-coming, first-served policy announced by the new Federal Reconstruction Finance Corporation makes it imperative that the receivers of closed Georgia banks lose no time in filing applications for loans with which to liquidate their frozen assets.

Senator George, in an interview urging immediate action by the receivers, points out that the law creating the corporation does not require that the $200,000,000 already put to its credit should be allocated to the various sections of the country.

This means that it would be possible for the receivers of closed banks in a single district to secure the entire sum so far appropriated. While this is, of course, not probable, it is certain that those states which have suffered much more severely from bank failures than has Georgia will quickly exhaust the $200,000,000 fund, thus making it difficult for this section to await the next appropriation if our applications are delayed.

Georgia has suffered probably less than any state in the Union as the result of the loss of money by depositors through the closing of banks—a situation that is both the result of, and a contributor to, our failure to suffer from the depression to the same degree as have other states.

It is expected that many of the closed banks will be able to reopen their doors with the liquidation of their frozen assets by the government. Thus communities which are now entirely without banking facilities will be relieved of the inconvenience to which they have been put, and their merchants will again have financial institutions upon which they can call for assistance when it is necessary to replenish stocks or to extend credit to customers.

Notwithstanding our enviable position in this respect, the amount of depositors' money tied up because of the frozen condition of the assets of closed Georgia banks is a sum so large that its distribution would have an immediate beneficial effect on financial and commercial conditions throughout the state.

This addition to the cash in circulation in the state would come at a time when it could do the maximum of good. Our merchants are now laying plans for their spring business and the banks and supply houses will soon be called on by the farmers for cash and credit with which to secure the necessary supplies for spring planting. We are at the threshold of the season when construction is most active.

From every viewpoint it is vital that the receivers of the closed Georgia banks should lose no time in sending in their loan applications. If they delay until the present $200,000,000 fund is exhausted and have to wait for another appropriation by congress to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, they will be doing an injustice not only to the depositors of the banks in their charge, but to their communities and the state as a whole.

John D. Rockefeller is declared to be cheered over the better business trend, so we can now, no doubt, expect an increase in the number of those bright and shiny new dimes in circulation.

President Hoover, while studying the specific campaign to halt hoarding, should sort out a supply of good specifics for use in an attempt to enliven the G. O. P.

THE WORLD WILL MISS HIM.

The death of Edgar Wallace, whose fame as a writer of detective stories was world-wide, will be mourned universally by thousands in every strata of life and of every color and age, who are lovers of the type of fiction of which he was a master producer.

Born of humble parentage in London, he absorbed as a newsboy in the slums of his native city many of the plots which later he elaborated into novels which brought pleasure to millions of readers.

Although Mr. Wallace died in Hollywood, his home was still in England, he having come to America some months ago to write motion picture scenarios.

He was one of the world's most prolific writers, his first novel, written at the age of 20, being followed by a steady stream of detective and mystery stories for the 36 years until his death.

More than a million and a half of his books have been sold in America, and the frequent publication of serials by him in the leading magazines of this country made his one of the best known names of current literature. His writing was marked by its simplicity of style and freedom from the objectionable sex features, which appear in the work of so many modern novelists.

The detective story has a peculiar fascination for readers of all types.

Many leaders in every line of endeavor find their greatest relaxation in the quiet perusal of "a good detective story"—and housewives and young people are to be found taking a few minutes off from duty or pleasure to follow the action of some absorbing mystery book.

Edgar Wallace heightened the plane of detective stories and his death is a distinct loss to clean, wholesome literature.

PROVIDENTIAL WEATHER.

Seldom in the history of Atlanta has a period of unseasonable weather been as welcome as has the mildness of the present winter.

Especially to the unfortunates of the city, those who as a result of unemployment or for any other reason are without the means with which to properly protect themselves and their loved ones from the onslaughts of severe cold, have the comparatively high temperatures been a Godsend.

Had the present winter been like the one of 1930-31, suffering would have been widespread in all parts of the city. The lack of proper food, clothing and heat would have caused sickness to be much more prevalent than it has been and the death rate to mount to a distressing height.

We have been spared the usual spells of severe cold which visit the city several times each winter, although we have sufficiently low temperatures, of short duration, to insure the destruction of dangerous germs and bacteria.

The local forecaster sees for the next few days a period of spring-like weather, with the probability that we are now out of danger of extreme cold.

Having emerged from the worst of the depression with less economic suffering than probably any other community in the country, Atlanta has reason for added thankfulness that what suffering has been experienced has not been aggravated by a winter of unusual severity.

COTTON FOR SUMMER WEAR.

The Gastonia Woman's Club has been one of the most energetic movers for the increased use of cotton, climaxing its efforts last summer by staging a successful cotton fashion show.

Following up these efforts this group of active southern women at their last meeting pledged themselves as follows:

"Because we live in a community dependent upon the economic status of cotton, we, the members of the Gastonia Woman's Club, unanimously resolve to aid in the consumption of cotton by buying and wearing cotton whenever and wherever possible during the spring and summer of 1932, and we wish to go on record as having made the above resolution."

If every woman's organization in the south were to follow the example of this club a long step would be taken towards putting cotton in its proper position as a material for dress for both men and women. Cotton fabrics are better suited than any other material for costumes of many types, but the greater promotion that has been given to silks and woolsens have forced the southern product into the background.

Increased use of cotton by the south would gradually make it more popular in the other sections of the country. If cotton textiles were used for all the purposes for which they are best suited, the demand for them would be such as to make necessary a material increase in the output of the mills of the south.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

What Americans Talk About.

Traveling up and down the land for the last few weeks, meeting people everywhere from all walks of life, I find that Americans are interested in two great European phenomena: Russia and Germany.

Curiosity about things done in Russia is immense! Will the five-year plan succeed? What do they think in France of the new life unfolding in the Soviet Union? Does Russia want to fight? What is that huge army for? Why doesn't Hitler seize Poland and when will he? Will there be a new war between France and Germany? These questions are fired at the returning American from all directions.

My impression is that something of tremendous significance is taking place in Russia and that vulgar, long-distance ridicule and vilification is unworthy, not only of the Russian, but also unworthy of men who want to look at things serenely and objectively. This doesn't make me a Bolshevik, but it does mean that the Russian experiment has accomplished what the American experiment has failed to do. But these things are far beyond the scope of this article.

Now that this fear is largely removed, the Russians are breathing more freely and are letting us see the campaigns of suppression. They just want to be left alone and build. It is too early to formulate a judgment on the ultimate result. Everything in that country is in flux and in general.

Huge and staggering mistakes have been made and are being made. The Russians are the first to admit it. Their papers are full of self-criticism. This should not be overlooked. When the Russians say, "We don't know how to do this; we are fools; we are inferior human beings; we don't know anything; the Americans beat us in every respect"—when they say all this, it is not exactly a sign of weakness, but an act of self-criticism implying strength and courage.

Life in western countries, might take a lesson in this respect. For we often talk as if all is well with us and so delude ourselves on many occasions.

Georgia Heroes Of the World War

By Sergeant L. E. Jaekel (All Rights Reserved.)

BEVERLY A. SHIPP, first lieutenant, 325th Infantry, Big Second Division, American Expeditionary Force, awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action with the enemy near Comy, France, October 8 and 10, 1918.

After successfully driving off the enemy's attacking force was counter-attacked and surrounded. Officers in charge decided to surrender to the superior numbers, but Lieutenant Shipp, refusing to do so, made his way to the rear through deadly enemy fire, although severely wounded while effecting his escape.

Residence at appointment, Cordele, Georgia.

BONNERS

The nobles had the privilege of exemption from taxes.

BONNERS are actual humorous tidbits found in examination papers, essays, etc., by teachers.

The value of money decreased one hundred and twenty-five per cent.

There are lots more people per capita in the United States today than there were in 1850.

New discoveries of gold in New Mexico would undoubtedly raise prices but not as much as if the gold was discovered in the United States.

Production is the manufacture of human wants as they are demanded.

There Is No Surplus of Soup in the Kitchen If Those at the Table Haven't Enough

By Robert Quillen

A youth from the mountains of North Carolina, driving a rattle-trap truck with a home-made body, crosses a bridge on his way out of Florida. His cargo is oranges, uncrated and ungraded, piled in the truck body like corn or coal.

It is late afternoon and he is told that 89 trucks with similar loads have preceded him across the bridge.

He bought the oranges from the grower and paid for them at the rate of 75 cents for a "field crate," which holds approximately two bushels. He will sell them back home at $1 a bushel and thus make a fair profit.

Trucks are not the only vehicles hauling these uncrated "field run" oranges. On railroad sidings, in big towns and small, ordinary freight cars serve as temporary warehouses from which the golden fruit is sold to retailers or consumers—by the bushel or the wagon load.

Yet, despite this prodigious distribution in the southeast, untold thousands of tons of Florida oranges will rot on the ground for want of a market.

And in the north—in the richest section of this richest of nations—millions of people will deny themselves a morning glass of orange juice because the cost is beyond their means.

Georgia, this year, as last, has peaches piled to feed to hogs or thrown into rivers or left on the trees to fall and rot on the ground. And in California the quantity of peaches uncrated and wasted will be greater than the total crop of Georgia's pulled trees.

Last year California peach growers pulled up 600,000 trees. This year they have agreed to pull up 700,000 more.

Last year, despite federal aid, wine bricks and home fermentation, over 400,000 tons of the finest California grapes rotted uncrated on the vines.

The same shameful story is true of grapefruit, of apples, of strawberries, of everything that grows in the ground.

There is a surplus which millions of people—millions of undernourished children—long in vain for the "luxuries" fed to hogs!

It is a hard commentary on America's boasted efficiency that fruit in the orchard "isn't worth picking" while the retail price is so high that millions can't afford it.

The fault, you say, is in the cost of transportation.

But government subsidizes the transportation of mail. Is the distribution of patent medicine circulars more important than the distribution of food?

Tammany Split Three Ways Following Smith Statement

BY ROBERT ST. JOHN.

(Copyright, 1932, by The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Tammany Hall, which traditionally goes into political battles with a united front, is at present split three ways as the result of Governor Smith's statement.

The third bloc is the one which swears allegiance to Mayor James J. Walker.

The group looks large on the Tammany horizon. He heads an army of 130,000 city employees and controls extensive Tammany patronage. He will have much to say about official presidential aspirants to get a large percentage of New York City's votes in the convention.

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt has been at odds with the investigation of the Walker government began.

Some indication of the feeling between the two men was seen in the mayor's failure to greet the governor as he filed past him at the funeral of John R. Voorhis, Tammany grand sachem, Monday.

Likewise, it is no secret that Walker and Smith are no longer close political friends. An intimate acquaintance of the mayor said the only thing Smith and Walker have had in common since the election was the mutual desire to keep Roosevelt from "sewing up" the nomination before the convention.

It is considered unlikely that Walker will throw the support of his Tammany followers to Smith. But whom he will back still he is uncertain as to whether he will back Smith or support for himself.

Elizabeth Marbury, New York: "I recommend that every man who is merely playing politics should take 40 days off for prayer and fasting."

GROGERS TO HEAR KEY ON FINANCES

Mayor Invites Dealers To Attend Class, Get "Unvarnished Truth."

Mayor James L. Key will tell 1,000 members of the Atlanta Retail Food Dealers' Association why the city has not paid its employees any money for services since December 15 at a meeting of his inter-denominational Sunday school class at the Capitol theater at 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

The mayor Wednesday was busy sending out invitations to all members of the association to attend the class and to hear from the chief executive's own lips the reason for the plight of employees. This plight will be attributed to dilatory tactics imposed by employees themselves.

As Key prepared to urge food dealers to attend the meeting Sunday morning, the Atlanta Association of Credit Men joined in the demand for immediate adoption of a balanced budget. Food dealers expressed their views several days ago.

"I am going to tell all those who attend the class Sunday the unvarnished truth about this financial crisis and why it has not been adjusted before now," Key said. "I do not wish to elaborate on it now."

Meanwhile a new compromise to gain additional supporters to the balanced budget which council has passed, but which has been held up on service of a motion that a motion will be filed to reconsider, was about Wednesday.

There is a proposal to pass the budget as it stands, but to enter into a gentlemen's agreement to direct about $30,000 from various accounts and place it at the disposal of the construction department, which suffered the heaviest cut in the sheet passed.

Little likelihood was seen, however, that even in the event council reaffirms its vote on the revised budget, that it can be cleared from the administrative board before March 4 because of the general belief that a motion to reconsider will be filed there.

Atlanta banks will not lend the city any money until a balanced budget has been adopted. This precludes payment of salaries to employees until demands of the banks have been met, as the city can not meet the pay rolls from current receipts.

Feminine Solon Urges War Women's Hospital

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—(AP)—A woman of congress, Representative Florence P. Kahn, on the military affairs committee, is asking a veterans' hospital for "disabled women veterans of all wars."

She introduced a bill today for a 250-bed hospital to cost $1,000,000 in her own state—California—to treat women patients only.

Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, of Massachusetts, said today that Administrator Hines, of the veterans' bureau, is considering a plan under which four women's hospitals will be placed in various parts of the country.

REPUBLICANS SLASH ROOSEVELT BUDGET

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Riding roughshod over democratic amendments and ignoring Governor Roosevelt's protest, the republicans of the New York legislature passed a $301,000,000 budget bill today.

It was $21,000,000 less than the gross budget recommended by Governor Roosevelt. The final vote was unanimous in both houses.

Governor Roosevelt's protest, sent to the legislative houses in a special message, was based on the removal of $11,000,000 in highway appropriations.

"This cut," he said, "will result in reducing the number of men employed in highway construction work by 13,345. These people will be forced to join the ranks of the unemployed."

Mr. Roosevelt warned the legislators to be not deceived "that by sitting placidly in the comfortable warm legislative halls and calmly cutting off $11,000,000 of highway money you are actually saving that to the state. No one will be deceived by false claims of economy."

IRISH OPPOSE OATH OF CROWN ALLEGIANCE

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Feb. 10.—(AP)—The Irish Free State election campaign today was in full swing with Eamonn De Valera's fiancée (republican) party asking for a mandate to remove from the constitution Article XVII, necessitating the oath of allegiance to the crown.

President William T. Cosgrave and his government supporters, however, maintained there should be no tampering with the constitution, and employees until demands of the banks have been met, as the city can not meet the pay rolls from current receipts.

Atlantans Greet Speakers at Citizenship Institute

Neill Taylor Ross, vice chairman of the national democratic committee and former governor of Wyoming, is shown in the upper picture with a group of Atlanta women who attended her talk Wednesday afternoon at the Emory Institute of Citizenship. Left to right, they are: Mrs. Charles Lorrans, Mrs. B. M. Boykin, who introduced Mrs. Ross; former Governor Ross, Mrs. W. A. Ormer, state president of the Georgia League of Women Voters; Mrs. R. L. Turman, vice president of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, and Mrs. Lamar Rutherford Lipscomb, national speaker of the democratic party. In the lower photograph are Dr. Charles Pergler, former minister of Czechoslovakia to Japan, who Wednesday night laid responsibility for the Japanese-Chinese conflict to Japan, with other leaders of the institute. In the group, from left to right, are: Dean G. C. White, Dr. Pergler, Dr. Theodore H. Jack, chairman of the institute, and Dr. H. J. Pearce Jr., of Brenau College, Gainesville. Smith's Attitude a Disappointment, Key, Favoring Roosevelt, Asserts

Keen disappointment at failure of Al Smith, 1928 democratic standard bearer, to eliminate himself definitely and finally as a 1932 presidential possibility was expressed Wednesday by Mayor James L. Key, who at the same time predicted a victory for the democrats with Franklin D. Roosevelt as their nominee.

The mayor also called upon democrats to pledge themselves in a major platform plank to submit the prohibition question to the voters of the nation through the various states as a means of "dealing with the 'experiment' which is no longer noble."

"Smith's failure to treat the presidential situation as frankly and as fearlessly as he has done every other matter during his 30 years of public service is disappointing me," Key said in referring to a statement Smith released Sunday saying he is not a candidate, but if selected would "make the fight."

"Smith is a great and fearless man, and has always done everything in a big way. His statement regarding his attitude is the only time in 30 years of active life that he ever fell below his own high standard. He is entitled to our admiration, respect and confidence through his services."

"As leader of the democratic phalanx this year, I think he should have set at rest any attempt to force the nomination on him this year. In my opinion, he should have said, 'I am not a candidate, will not be a candidate and have no candidate.' That was what the millions of loyal democrats throughout the nation rather expected him to say."

"I do not believe the democrats, reputedly famous in republican ranks for their mistakes, can make enough blunders to prevent selection of a democrat in the forthcoming election and I believe Roosevelt will be the choice, because he now is the almost unanimous choice of those who have the interests of the party at heart."

"The democratic party, however, should pledge itself in one of the major planks of its platform to submit the prohibition question to the electorate of the various states. There should be no equivocation about it. Just let the people honestly and fairly say what they want done about it."

Because of his prohibition views, Key is a national figure. He startled the south and drew international comment several months ago when, as a guest of the government of France, he said prohibition had failed to produce temperance and sobriety.

He came home hailed as a hero and assailed as a betrayer of his country while on foreign shores. He has been subjected to an attempted recall by ardent prohibitionists, but remains Atlanta's mayor.

Feeble-Mindedness Lot Of Young Mother's Baby

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Lillian Moore, 20 years old, had to face today the certainty that her 13-month-old daughter, Diana, will always be feeble-minded.

The verdict came last night from a group of specialists who had examined the baby in the hope that an operation to enlarge her skull, which had closed in at the top prematurely, might relieve pressure on her brain and permit her to develop into a normal human being.

SAMARITAN CONTEST WINNERS ANNOUNCED

Prize winners in the Good Samaritan contest for the week ending February 6 were announced on Wednesday. The usual announcement in Wednesday morning's Constitution was delayed because of the heavy vote. The following were the winners:

First prize, $60: St. Anthony Catholic church, Mrs. L. W. Pierce, chairman.
Second prize, $35: Western Heights Baptist church, Mrs. F. R. Martin, chairman.
Third prize, $23: Wesley Memorial Methodist church, Miss Mary E. Baker, chairman.

Fourth prize, $12: Longley Avenue Christian church, Mrs. W. W. Knight, chairman.
Representative churches—Catholic, Baptist, Methodist and Christian—were among the winners. Over 7,000,000 votes were turned in, representing over $70,000 in cash purchases and payments on accounts during the week.

The campaign has nearly three months to run, and weekly prizes are available to new churches entering the campaign. All have a chance at the four grand prizes to be given at the close of the campaign, as follows: First prize, $1,250; second, $750; third, $500, and fourth, $250.

HURLEY REBUKES PHILIPPINE PLEA

U. S. Warned Against Withdrawal From Insular Possession.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Solemn warning was given today by Secretary Hurley, of the war department, that immediate withdrawal of the United States from the Philippines would bring about economic disaster and invite revolution and anarchy in the islands.

He told the house insular committee "the political chaos in the Orient today is such that in my opinion this is no time to deal with Philippine independence."

Publicly revealing for the first time the result of his personal investigation last summer in the Philippines, the war secretary charged Filipino political leaders with suppression of the right of free speech and creating a condition which prevents open discussion of the independence issue under penalty of ostracism.

Secretary Hurley directed harsh criticism toward the Hare independence bill, calling it "destructive and in no way a courageous measure for dealing with the Philippine problem."

Beginning his testimony by summarizing his "fundamental conclusions," Secretary Hurley made the following statements to help him:

The present legislation directed toward Philippine independence would serve the interests of neither the Philippines nor the American people.

Until Filipinos shall have made far greater progress toward economic independence, political freedom would defeat its own purpose and invite revolution and anarchy.

The political and social institutions of the Filipino people are not yet developed to a point where the stability of an independent government would be reasonably assured.

The most essential steps toward economic independence are the establishment of stable trade relations and greater diversification of Philippine agriculture and industry.

The secretary's charges that the clamor of political leaders for independence is not the sentiment of many

Son Attempts Suicide After Death of Mother

MORGAN CITY, La., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Manda Lombas, aged 55, died while dancing at a Mardi Gras ball last night on Plum Bayou, a short distance down the river from Morgan City. Her son saw his mother lying dead on the floor and he attempted to shoot himself but was disarmed.

MRS. QUIN REFUSES TO ENTER POLITICS

MACOMB, Miss., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Edgar B. Williams, former law partner of the late Congressman Percy E. Quinn, says Mrs. Quinn will not attempt to succeed her husband in office.

Williams, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, issued a statement from Mrs. Quinn, in which she said: "I feel that Mr. Quinn's record and his memory are too sacred for me to attempt to succeed him. Nevertheless I want to say I appreciate the honor bestowed upon me by the kind-hearted friends who urged me to enter the race."

Filipinos who fear to express their views, drew a sharp challenge from Manuel Roxas, speaker of the insular house of representatives and joint leader of the independence mission in Washington.

"The secretary's statement," Roxas said, "is unbelievable and could not possibly be true."

THE SUN ALWAYS RISES

WHENEVER a recession comes to business, men cry "All is lost; the sun will never rise again." But each time America forges ahead again to far greater heights than before.

Here is the record:

Panic Year	America's Wealth
1837	6 Billions
1857	15 "
1873	35 "
1893	70 "
1903	100 "
1907	140 "
1921	320 "
1929	400 "

It may seem dark now, but who can doubt—in the face of such a record—that the dawn will soon come?

BREAK of the DAY!
By Ralph McGill

Curly Fulton, who starred with the Petrels before playing professional football with Brooklyn last fall, pictures "Stumpy" Thomason in a new role which shows what a real football player the Little Giant was and is.

Thomason was a great ball carrier for the Jackets during his three years at the Flats. He lugged the leather in scintillating style for the Dodgers in 1930. But last season, because of the many stars on the Dodger backfield squad, they started looking around for a blocking back.

Stumpy Thomason was the best they had. He could block so well that he carried the ball only now and then. Stumpy was so good at it that he came to be recognized as the best blocking back in the game.

"I never saw anyone who could handle a tackle like Stumpy," said Fulton. "He never missed getting that tackle. I don't seem to recall that he blocked much while at Tech, probably because he wasn't called on to do any, but he certainly can let a tackle have it now."

NEWS OF "FATHER" LUMPKIN.

Fulton brings back some news of "Father" Lumpkin, one of the greatest offensive and defensive fullbacks the south ever had. Lumpkin left Tech to play pro football after the 1929 season.

"Father" has a tin ear now, a little memento of his boxing and wrestling during the winter and summer seasons. According to Fulton, the ear is about the size of your fist, providing you have a good-sized fist.

And the curious thing is that Lumpkin, a great line-smasher, is being used largely as a blocking back. It is almost inconceivable that two of the best ball-carrying backs the south ever had should be doing blocking chores, but it also shows the trend of the game toward specialization. And Lumpkin does a great job of blocking and is playing the best football of his career, according to Fulton.

A GAME FOR HE-MEN.

The pro game is a hard and fast one, one gathers from talking with Fulton. "We work twice as hard as college teams during practice," said Fulton. "The players have to keep in training. Those that don't can't keep the pace."

"We scrimmage twice a day for about four weeks and run a lot of signals and all that sort of thing, in addition to scrimmaging," said Fulton.

The prize story, the one I loved, was of "Father" Lumpkin's Portsmouth eleven, probably the best of the pro teams last fall. The Giants managed to beat them, 7 to 0, on a Sunday afternoon.

But the Portsmouth boys were a little stiff. It seemed that they had just licked a strong team in Philadelphia on Saturday night and then hopped into New York to play the best team in that section on Sunday afternoon.

All of which goes to show what a few years or age and growth will do. The college men are just learning the game when they have finished. And are just getting endurance and stamina when they are through.

THOSE TRAVELING CRACKERS.

Poor old Atlanta always takes it right on the goatee when anything tough is dealt out to the baseball team.

Mr. Freddie Russell, with some new hemstitching in his side where an angry appendix made its exit, had time in the hospital to figure out that the Atlanta Crackers will travel more than any other club in the league. Mr. Russell says:

It was in 1925, six seasons ago, that the Crackers won their last flag. Reasoning assigned for the failure have been numerous, including poor management, athletes' foot, lack of speed on the bases, pink toothbrush, no civic pride, domestic hands, internal dissension and inflated waist-lines.

There is one alibi, however, that Atlantans have failed to summon to the aid of their cause. This is the fact that the Crackers each year travel hundreds—in some cases thousands—of miles further than their competitors. And when the steamy days of August come along they must be oh-so-tired.

Here's the mileage table on the 1932 schedule, showing the Georgians still leading by a comfortable margin, though hard pushed by Birmingham:

Team	Miles
Atlanta	14,062
Birmingham	13,320
New Orleans	11,909
Memphis	10,810
Knoxville	10,211
Little Rock	9,672
Nashville	9,294
Chattanooga	8,580

This means that the Crackers travel more than 5,000 miles than do the Lookouts. Joe Engel seems to have foxed the boys right handily on that schedule. The extra 5,000 miles means a serious lot of money. Those cheaper rates, which the league will get, will be quite a help.

DEMPEY'S COMEBACK.

One wonders if Jack Dempsey really will make a comeback. The legs that were none too good at Chicago and Philadelphia, can't be any better after all these years. Paul Lowry, writing in the Los Angeles Times, says:

"The man has been called on Jack Dempsey again. Watching the Manassah Mauler stop 'Bad News' Johnson and Wally Hunt at Stockton last night, Harry Smith, veteran sports writer of San Francisco, says he saw nothing that faintly resembled the Dempsey of old. Leg power gone, eyesight none too good and punches lacking in snap was the way Smith summed it up. He saw Dempsey in the peak days with Willard at Toledo and Carpenter at Jersey City, and the difference apparently was appalling."

"This is not a surprising picture of Dempsey. Bad legs kept him from knocking out Tunney at Chicago five years ago. But it is astonishing how Dempsey continues to fool some of the writers. They refer to him as the mauler of old. Both Johnson and Hunt are Palooks of the worst variety. The Dempsey of old would have stopped them in less than one round apiece. Dempsey's present barnstorming tour will never land him a match with Max Schmeling for the heavyweight title. Not if Dempsey can help it. He doesn't want to be killed."

The Dempsey fans, however, will hoot at Mr. Lowry and Mr. Harry Smith, even though they be correct. Dempsey will always be the greatest fighter to most of the ringworms.

WHAT! NO PILOT?

Mr. Dan Parker sees nothing remarkable in the fact that a hobbled west down the mile and a half run at Lake Placid with out a helmsman or a passenger. "Just look," says Mr. Parker, "how long this country has been going along with no one steering it."

YOST DECLARES BUT 22 PLAYERS KILLED ON GRID

Veteran Coach, in Investigation, Finds Reports Exaggerated.

By Merle Oliver, Associated Press Staff Writer.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 10.—(AP) Fielding H. Yost, athletic director at the University of Michigan, who has just completed an investigation into each of the 43 deaths charged against football last fall, disclosed today that only 22 of the fatalities actually resulted from playing the game.

He has presented a report of his findings to E. K. Hall, chairman of the football rules committee, which will open its annual meeting at Hanover, N. H., Friday.

Yost said he learned that one boy reported to have died from football injuries is alive and enjoying good health. Another who was reported dead was found never to have existed. Of the 21 reported deaths which Yost refused to charge against football, two were caused by pneumonia, one by infantile paralysis, one by kidney disease, six by infections, one by appendicitis, one by typhoid fever, and one by heart disease.

OTHERS CHECKED.

One boy was injured fatally when wrestling and another was struck by a truck. One small boy kicked at a soccer ball, missed and fell on his back while playing in the street. Three boys who did not play football died from unknown causes.

"It is proper," Yost's report says, "that football should be cleared of responsibility for the deaths improperly charged against it. At the same time, it is also fitting that football take stock of itself and see what risks may be eliminated and what safeguards may be raised to prevent further deaths."

The 22 deaths which did result from football injuries were from the following causes: Fracture of cervical vertebrae (broken neck); neck; cerebral hemorrhage; four; peritonitis; skull fracture; ruptured spleen and brain; cerebral hemorrhage; one each. Two deaths were from unknown causes. Seven of those fatally injured were college students, seven were high school and eight were "sand lot" or unorganized players.

HIS CONCLUSION.

Yost drew these conclusions: That the number of fatal injuries is in inverse proportion to the degree of coaching, training and medical supervision exercised.

"That the most frequent cause of death is fracture of cervical vertebrae. That fatal injuries occur principally as the result of players being struck on the neck, head or abdomen by the hands or feet of their opponents. Yost offered four suggestions to make the game safer:

"All equipment should be designed not only for the protection of the wearer but also with consideration for the safety of the opponent.

"Players should be impressed with the great importance of giving immediate attention to cuts, scratches, abrasions and other avenues of infection.

"Great attention should be paid by officials to improper use of knees and hands.

"Officials are needed who will penalize unnecessary roughness."

Fordham Grider Slowly Recovers.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(AP)—John Seaman, Fordham University athlete injured in a football game with Bucknell November 21, has sufficiently recovered to be removed from Fordham hospital to the school infirmary for convalescence.

The paralysis which had gripped his left side has almost entirely disappeared, it was reported. At one time it was feared Szymanski would never walk again.

Szymanski, a junior, while in the infirmary, will continue his studies.

TECH HIGH FIVE BATTLES G. M. A.

Tech High and Madison Aggies will be hosts this afternoon in the third round of the last fall of the Big Six basketball schedule. The Smithies play G. M. A. at 3 o'clock on the Henry Grady court and Madison meets Boys' High on the Madison court at the same time. Monroe Aggies will be idle today.

Tech High continues to lead the league with six straight victories in both the varsity and B leagues, with Boys' High second in the varsity and G. M. A. second in the B league.

G. M. A. will give Tech High plenty of trouble today, as the Cadets have shown great improvement in recent games and their last half rally against Darlington School Monday was exceptionally good.

Tech High was sluggish Tuesday against Madison and as a consequence played a slow game, particularly in the second half.

Boys' High should not have much trouble with Madison today, as the boys have been building up and building toward the annual G. I. A. tournament scheduled for February 25, 26 and 27 at Savannah, Ga.

Regional Centers Named for Meets

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 10.—(AP)—A partial list of regional centers for the 1932 American Legion junior baseball tournament was announced tonight by Russell Cook, in charge of the play. Others probably will be decided upon in two or three weeks, he said.

Centers named included New Orleans, La., for Louisiana; Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma; Columbia, S. C., for South Carolina; North Carolina and Virginia.

The three championship series will be played August 30, 31 and September 1 at Manchester, N. H.

'Riled Up'

Jack Dempsey last night took occasion to reply to Gene Tunney's comment on his courage in his (Tunney's) life story now running in a magazine. In Cleveland, Dempsey gave out an interesting interview, published below, in which he heatedly denies some of Gene's assertions.

Jack Dempsey last night took occasion to reply to Gene Tunney's comment on his courage in his (Tunney's) life story now running in a magazine. In Cleveland, Dempsey gave out an interesting interview, published below, in which he heatedly denies some of Gene's assertions.

Tunney Story Stirs Jack to Reply

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Jack Dempsey today answered Gene Tunney's assertion in his current Collier's autobiography that Dempsey had "a confidence in himself" when he was heavyweight champion.

Dempsey, here to resume his exhibition tour in a 4-round bout against Meyer (K. O.) Christner, of Akron, Ohio, tomorrow night, read Tunney's remarks about courage and said:

"Tunney and I differ in a great many ways. I guess we also differ on what courage is. I only know of one kind of courage and that's go ahead and fight and keep punching until you win or lose. Maybe Tunney has a different definition of courage."

WHAT GENE SAID.

Tunney's article said: "Though the majority of boxing's best judges believed that Dempsey could easily whip Harry Wills, his persistent negro challenger, Jack evidently did not. He failed to accept a seven-year challenge. Four days before his first match, Dempsey called Herman Taylor, a Philadelphia boxing promoter, into the privacy of his dressing room after a 'workout' and asked:

"Don't kid me, Herman. Do you honestly think I will win from Tunney? Taylor was so impressed by Dempsey's lack of confidence in himself that he refused to accept the challenge."

In a further discussion of Tunney's article, the first one he had seen, Dempsey said:

"I was anxious to fight Harry Wills, but Tex Rickard did not believe such a match between mixed races could be held. Finally I went against Rickard's judgment and did sign at South Bend, Ind., to meet Wills. Rickard was right about it being impossible to hold the match, and it cost me $100,000 in law suits and litigation to try to get Wills into a ring with me."

When he read the paragraph about Taylor's remarks, Dempsey looked up and said:

"Now here he's quoting someone else. Not anything he heard."

"Well, did you call Taylor in and ask him for his opinion, Jack?"

"I never had any such conversation as this (pointing to the part in question) that I ever remember. I was champion for seven years and I never had to call in anyone from the outside for advice."

"Did you ever doubt your ability while you were champion or have any fears?"

"I did not. And I don't now. Even today I think I have a chance to beat anyone I meet because I am a puncher. I may get socked all over the body over 20 rounds, but if I can get over one haymaker, that's all I need."

Dempsey was asked if he thought Tunney showed lack of courage by retreating from him after he had been knocked down in the seventh round of his Chicago fight.

"No," he replied. "I had good judgment. I wouldn't call Tunney yellow just because he backed away from me. He had to protect himself, and that was the best way to do it. I have always thought Tunney was a game fighter."

Roos in Columbus Today for Confab

MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 10.—"Chick" Roos, new business manager of the Atlanta Crackers, bade farewell to his old home here this afternoon and left by automobile for Georgia, accompanied by Mrs. Roos.

They will take up their abode in Atlanta. Before leaving Roos wired officials of the Columbus, Ga., baseball club, with which the Crackers have a working agreement, that he would stop over in that city today for a conference, en route to Atlanta.

Roos stated that the crying need of the Atlanta club was a first baseman and that the Crackers may have to start the season with a Class B man at that position. He said, however, that Red Barron may visit the big league camps in Florida in search of a prospect before long.

FARGO EXPRESS TO MEET THREE GOOD BATTLERS

Bouts With Battalino, Fields, Canzoneri Are Booked for Petrolle.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Jimmy Johnston, manager of boxing at Madison Square Garden, rushed to the telephone tonight and gleefully announced that he had "closed" for Billy Petrolle, the Fargo Express, to fight the 15-round "naturals."

The smashing welter from North Dakota will meet Bat Battalino, former featherweight champion, in mid-March; Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, in April, and Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, in May.

ALL AT GARDEN.

Johnston said all bouts would be staged at the Garden, and the Fields and Canzoneri contests would be title affairs. He said he had completed negotiations tonight with Jack Hurley, Petrolle's manager, and the managers of the three other fighters had accepted the bouts.

Battalino recently was deprived of his crown by the National Boxing Association because of a questionable showing against Freddy Miller at Cincinnati in an advertised "title" bout. When the rugged Hartford Italian and Petrolle step into the ring, Johnston predicted, "an irresistible force will be meeting an immovable object."

Fields recently made a remarkable comeback when he regained his title from Lou Brouillard, of Boston. Experts believe the Los Angeles boxer may lose the bauble again when Petrolle starts hooking into his mid-fist.

The Canzoneri-Petrolle match is expected to furnish plenty of fireworks, but again the Fargo Express will be a favorite because of Tony's recent poor showing against Johnny Jadick at Philadelphia, when Jadick won Canzoneri's synthetic junior welterweight title.

CARD ANNOUNCED.

Madison Square Garden tonight announced its complete February 19 card of four 10-rounders as follows:

Eddie Han, Polish welterweight, vs. Billy Townsend, of Vancouver; Young Terry, Trenton (N. J.) middleweight, vs. Chick Devlin, of Vancouver; Kid Francis, Italian featherweight, vs. Lew Goldstein, of Brooklyn; Ray Gans, California junior welterweight, vs. Eddie Kid Wolfe, of Memphis.

FLYNN WINNER OVER CRAVOTTA

New Orleans Welter Champ Impressive in Charity Bout.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Eddie Flynn, of New Orleans, who won the national amateur welterweight boxing championship the last time he came to New York, returned to the Madison Square Garden ring tonight and outpointed Charles Cravotta, hard hitting amateur from Uniontown, Pa., in one of the featured bouts of a program for the benefit of the mayor's unemployment fund.

A crowd of about 8,000 cheered Flynn as he floored his rival in the first round, then coasted through the remaining two stanzas to an easy victory. After piling up an early margin, Flynn took things easy and had little more than a workout in the last two rounds.

Cravotta was bleeding from a slight cut on the mouth at the end of the bout while Flynn, who offered a superb defense, was unmarked.

Flynn made good use of his left hand, jabbing the Pennsylvania boy off balance and hooking effectively. Toward the end of the second round, Cravotta tried to tip the scales into a champion at full tilt. But Flynn cut loose with his right a couple of times and stopped him. Cravotta kept rushing through the final round but took severe punishment about the body without landing effectively.

HIS MOTTO.

"Sock 'em on the belly, then crown 'em on the chin," was Dempsey's motto. He practiced it in camp.

We recall that Dempsey had one or two faithful sparring mates when he was the champ that did not crumple up and "dog" it when sock started blasting away at their chins.

"Gawge" Godfrey, the big black, was one of them. Big Bill Tate was another. Dempsey liked to work with them because they were big and rough and could take it.

And there were others if you remember. There was Jack League. He was a soldier who barnstormed with Dempsey and "took them."

TOO MUCH TAKING.

Out on the shoals of pugilism there are punch-drunk men who are tipping their hats to telephone poles and walking on their heels, all because they took them too often in training with Dempsey. No doubt the Manassah Mauler has given many a dollar to the unfortunate, for he is big-hearted to a fault. And they were his cannon fodder.

And even now, while well past the 30-year mark, old Jack is blasting them out of there. We notice where he snuffed out a couple more the other night—Jack Roper and a youngster named Everett. A little more of that and Roper and Everett will be walking on their heels, too, and bowing to telephone poles.

It is to wonder how Jack gets his sparring partners now, for they say he hits as hard as ever, although he can't move and bob quite as fast.

Max Abelson announced yesterday he has fixed prices for the bout with latter price.

It will be interesting to see who is thrown in as the shock absorbers when Dempsey comes here the last of March.

A Pound a Day

That is what Murray "Red" Howell (left), Atlanta boy, must lose by the opening day of spring training season. He weighs 230 pounds now and must lose at least 15 pounds before Brooklyn starts work, as Max Carey, manager of the Dodgers, is figuring on giving him a regular berth in the outfield if he makes the weight. Bob Farham, Atlanta boy, who belongs to the Cardinals, is working out with "Red."

Life of a Dempsey 'Taker' Is Tough One

Sparring Partners at Premium as Jack Makes Cannon 'Fodder' of Them.

By Jimmy Jones.

One by one they go down under Jack Dempsey's flailing fists. Like candles snuffed out with a gust from the window. So many guinea pigs serving their place in the Manassah Mauler's experimental campaign.

The toll of sparring partners in Dempsey's camp is growing higher. The human punching bags are willing under the still murderous pounding and some, tired of being cannon fodder for the ex-champion's rights and lefts, are folding their suit rolls and silently stealing away.

Now, long ago Jack Dempsey had to lay off fighting a while until he and the suave Mr. Leonard Sachs could recruit more sparring partners to be butchered and allow those who had been butchered a chance to recuperate.

They say that he can't hit as he did at Toledo any more, but there are lots of heavies who wouldn't care to dispute the point with Dempsey. He still packs enough dynamite to bowl over the average heavy and it will be interesting to see if King Levinsky can stand up for four rounds. The Chicagoan is the best Jack has signed to meet.

Dempsey has always been rough on his training mates. When he was at his peak few pugilists would dare to step in the ring for fear of having their ears knocked down and their faces lifted up with deadly right uppercuts.

HOWELL SEEKS TO LOSE WEIGHT AND GET BERTH

Brooklyn Considers Him Real Slugger; Works at Daly's.

By Jimmy Jones.

A rather large and ruddy-checked young man came out of the steam room at Bill Daly's place yesterday and stepped on the scales.

The bean immediately kicked up to 230 pounds.

"Gee whiz!" said the hefty one, who was perspiring from every pore, "I've got to get off at least 15 of that before reporting."

Murray (Red) Howell, a local boy who aspires to do some outfielding for the Brooklyn baseball club this year, began his annual spring reduction program yesterday.

QUITE A GATHERING.

There was quite a gathering around, for when "Red" Howell starts reducing, it is very much the same procedure as when Babe Ruth starts reducing, only on a smaller scale.

There were none of those rocking horses or spanking machines around. "Red" Howell simply shook off his street clothes, put on a gym suit and began exercising at first one and then another about the place, winding up in the little room, with steam sizzling and spluttering out through the cracks.

Murray Howell weighed 231 pounds when he went into the little room. When he came out, he weighed 230 pounds. A pound isn't so much but if he can lose a pound a day until Brooklyn begins spring training he will be just about down to his normal weight, which is 215 pounds.

ORDERED TO REPORT.

"Red" has been ordered to join the Brooklyn squad at Clearwater, Fla., February 20. That isn't so far off. It is very important that Howell get his weight down, for he has a very good chance of making the grade with Brooklyn this year.

The Robins (whoever they call themselves now) could use a young high-handed batter very easily. And Howell is a very hard right-handed batter. He is a natural slugger and will be a regular in the outfield if he makes the weight. Bob Farham, Atlanta boy, who belongs to the Cardinals, is working out with "Red."

Mr. Corbett Says He's Well Enough

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(UP)—James J. Corbett, former champion, tonight he would fight the winner of the Schmeling-Sharkey bout. The announcement was intended, Corbett explained, as a denial of widespread reports that he was dying.

"I received a wire from Jack Dempsey today, offering him a pathies because of my condition," said the 64-year-old boxer.

"So I replied to Jack that I was in better shape than he was."

FARHAM WORKS.

A co-worker with Howell at the gym is Bob Farham, another Atlanta boy who figured in the Hack Wilson deal. Bob, who made the Eastern league all-star team last year, and hit .330, was sent to the Cards.

Bob said yesterday he hadn't received his contract yet and was awaiting orders. He hopes they will send him to Rochester or Houston, the better Cardinal "farm." Bob is not being troubled by Mr. Howell's problem. He is down to his normal weight—about 185 pounds.

TILDEN TOURS FLORIDA CITIES

Big Bill Tilden, long the amateur tennis ruler of the United States, who retired from the Simon-Pure ranks on December 30, 1930, is now in an exhibition tour of Florida cities, preparatory to returning here for an exhibition in the city auditorium February 26.

Although Tilden has never made a professional appearance here, he once was a member of a theatrical group that staged the play, "Dracula," in an Atlanta playhouse.

With Tilden in his exhibition here will be six outstanding players, whose names have not been announced. With one of the six Tilden will play a special singles match.

From 1918 until he retired in 1930 Tilden won 2

Atlanta division of the Georgia State Teachers' College Alumnae Association of Athens, Ga., will have a luncheon at the Henry Grady hotel at 1 o'clock Saturday, February 20. Members are urged to attend, and invitation is extended to any alumna or any faculty member in the city. Mrs. E. L. Stanley, the new president, will preside.

A brief but interesting business session will follow the luncheon, which will take the place of the monthly meeting of the spring program will be discussed. Mrs. Stanley was the vice president of the national Alumnae Association last year and was a member of the graduating class of 1920. The retiring president, Miss Annie W. Bell, was also a member of the class of 1920 and is a teacher in the S. E. Imman school.

For reservations call Hemlock 0281-W before noon Friday, February 19.

Members of the Pi Pi Club will entertain at a formal dance Friday evening at the Piedmont Driving Club which will assemble several hundred members of the younger social contingent and college set. This club is composed of a group of attractive students and is a former member of the Emory Glee Club, will sing. He has a fine tenor voice and is a well-known singer. He will sing several of Frank L. Stanton's best loved songs. Another feature of the program will be the "Pickaninny Dance," which will be given by a group of advanced pupils of the C. E. La Fontaine School of Dancing. Mrs. Robert Blackman will give an appropriate reading in costume, and Dr. Willis Sutton will speak.

The menu includes choice of cream of tomato soup or crab cocktail, saltines; choice of half of broiled chicken on toast or fillet mignon with fresh mushrooms, spinach with grated egg, spiced beef, buttered new potatoes with parsley; heart of iceberg lettuce with thousand island dressing, hot biscuits, olives, pickles, celery, strawberry shortcake, salted pecans, mints, coffee. Dinner will be informal and will be served by a committee of ladies under the supervision of Mrs. Armstrong Smith. Husbands of club members will be honor guests and are urged to attend.

Art classes, lectures and other features of the club have successfully carried on since its organization in 1920. Those taking part in the play, essays and musical numbers were Misses Lois Lennard, Edna McCormack, Patricia Hargis, Henrietta Thompson, Mary Kohler, Jean Coddling, Mary Frances Harrington and Mildred Harding, with a dance number by Miss Gene Fambrough, a pupil of Mrs. C. E. LaFontaine in Atlanta.

Selections by the Kirkwood band were enjoyed. This band was organized and is entirely governed by boys, all under 18 years of age, without any supervision by adults.

Mrs. Lennard, under whose untiring efforts both the junior and juvenile divisions of the club have successfully carried on was amply rewarded for her work in the many expressions of praise and commendation. The members of the juvenile division of the club also presented gifts to Mrs. R. L. Nagle, teacher of the study course, who awarded the silver coving cup, Mrs. Leonard.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough due to a cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle. Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar, stirred in, and honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It's heaven-sent, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations. Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Mr. and Mrs. Hansell Honor Alumni

Columbia Alumni the world over will pay tribute to Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, the man under whose leadership Columbia has grown from a college with an enrollment of slightly over 3,000 students to a university in which almost 50,000 are engaged in the pursuit of knowledge. Atlanta Alumni organization, under the leadership of Perrin Nicholson, president, will gather at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Granger Hansell, in Druid Hills, to participate in the ceremonies honoring Dr. Butler, who will speak on a national broadcasting system over WGST at 10:15 o'clock. At that hour thousands of people, in addition to those who gather in the spirit of alms water, will listen to Dr. Butler, who is a nationally and internationally prominent figure.

This is a year of anniversaries for the president of Columbia. It marks the 70th year of his birth, the 50th year of his graduation, and the 30th year of his presidency of the great educational institution, which is a monument to his success. Standing during the major portion of his years as a stalwart conservative, emerging only in later years as a liberal, it is characteristic that on the eve of his 70th birthday Dr. Butler reaffirms his faith, and with a wisdom high and wise made the declaration that "what we need today is not narrow men but broad men, sharpened to a point."

William J. Davis, on West Peachtree street.

Martin's Summer

BY VICKI BAUM.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

Martin went home, and the first thing he did was to put a fresh bandage round his inflamed arm. It had been painful the whole evening, for during the Mayraders' swimming lesson the bandage had become sodden with water and pressed painfully on the throbbing flesh. He felt sick when he even thought of his elbow. "A nice business," he said with severity as he looked at the wound which though healed had an unhealthy bluish red and swollen appearance. His right hand was hot and numb. He was taken with such a violent shuddering fit that for a moment or two he gave way to it like a tree before a storm. He let things take their course. It was all a matter of indifference. Everything seemed remote and strange.

He crept into bed. The bed clothes were always a little damp, for the lake lapped under the floor boards. Martin could not get as far as the lamp. It seemed to him, too, that the sides of the hut were maddening and hostile and all the knots in the wood were eyes. The bed was surprised to find that he was two people (one of them observed that he must now assuredly be in a fever). After this he found himself in an engine room where the heat was terrific. The men were all aglow with heat. He could feel how their backs and shoulders burned, and he took off his shirt. One of the men got his arms caught in the driving belt. It was horrible. The man was in agony. "If it's all up with the chief engineer, May will have to marry Herr Wucherpfennig," said Herr Lysenhop. They dragged Martin out of the shed, for it was his arm that had been torn off. Somebody picked it up out of the sawdust and came running after him with it. The whole bed was full of sawdust, and Martin tossed restlessly in dry rustling sheets of it. "I've had enough of this, thought Martin. It's time to wake up and he did so.

He felt gingerly about on the table for water, but could find none. So he went into the kitchen to his mother. His mother sat on the coal scuttle grinding pepper in the pepper mill. It was very hot in the kitchen, too, and the pepper made him smart. Martin got on his bicycle that his mother had redeemed from the pawnshop and rode upon it into the Dolomites. The Dolomites were very steep but made of a kind of papier-mache that constantly gave way. Boom—boom went the pebble and mortar. It was almost impossible to get 1,200 meters up in these Dolomites. May might stand long enough with the stop watch and beckon him on. The pebble and mortar, too, made him nervous and he thought: No record today. He fell off his bicycle in a slag heap and a sharp stone was left sticking to his elbow. He tried to get it out but it wouldn't budge and went straight through the laboratory back to his mother. Boom—boom went the pebble and mortar.

A machine that was constructed all wrong produced non-inflammable film. The strips rolled themselves up and got mixed up with one another in great heaps. The laboratory was full of them, and his mother did not stop pounding in the mortar. Suddenly there was a rending sound, and the non-inflammable film caught fire. It burnt bright and hot and glowing, and Martin was hurled to the ground by the explosion. He opened his eyes suddenly and felt his heart pounding and stared senselessly at the paraffin lamp which he had not noticed was still alight flaring with a blackened wick and smelling horribly.

Martin assembled the various selves into which he had put his hat on long time he saw her: she wore the same rough cloak with a hood, the cotton dress, and rough boots; and he was wet through. A rush of cold air and moisture came with her. Rain pattered, too, on the roof.

"Oh, so it's you. And what do you want? You haven't come for a bath in the middle of the night?" he shouted.

"It's me, Puck. Open the door," came the answer.

This seemed very surprising. In his dazed state he could not understand it. He put his feet to the floor and crawled out of bed. It seemed to him that the walls for a few seconds were completely black and then became visible again in the light of the smoking lamp. He grasped hold of his chair and gave a curse at the pain this caused him. Then he said: "Come in. The door's open."

The door opened and in came Puck. She looked just as she had on long time he saw her: she wore the same rough cloak with a hood, the cotton dress, and rough boots; and he was wet through. A rush of cold air and moisture came with her. Rain pattered, too, on the roof.

"Oh, so it's you. And what do you want? You haven't come for a bath in the middle of the night?" he shouted.

"It's me, Puck. Open the door," came the answer.

This seemed very surprising. In his dazed state he could not understand it. He put his feet to the floor and crawled out of bed. It seemed to him that the walls for a few seconds were completely black and then became visible again in the light of the smoking lamp. He grasped hold of his chair and gave a curse at the pain this caused him. Then he said: "Come in. The door's open."

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Parents, what note is accented in your home life? Piety, pleasure, money, manners, work, play, learning, leisure? What are the subjects that you hold up before your children, and what are the virtues that you inculcate in them? It is the accent of the home that determines the ambition of the children. It is the accent placed on the syllable of a word determines which syllable shall be stressed in pronunciation of that word, so the virtues accented by the parents determine whether or not their children are going to stress those virtues.

I sat, only yesterday, at the dinner table with a highly successful business man and heard him analyze the elements that had contributed to his present position. He was one of the sentences that tripped lightly off his tongue: "My mother could see a nickel four hundred miles away." "She was as tight as the bark of a tree." "She always said to me when she hugged me money: Remember, when you see a nickel, you keep it. When you see a quarter you keep it, and when you see a dollar you keep it. When you see five dollars out of work for a year." "When I went off to college my father said: 'I am going to place money in your account in the bank and you can check on it. Keep all your receipts and send them to me at the end of each month.'"

When he had finished his recital a member of the party asked him if he enjoyed spending his money, now that he had it in such abundance. "No," he replied, "I had rather save it."

All the lectures on the sin of lying, and on the virtue of honesty, all the mother's and father's effort to make their child truthful, may fall short of success. But if the example of truthfulness and honesty is set before him by that father and mother, the reaction is different. No mother can teach her child that it is wrong to tell a lie if she hears her mother offer a lying excuse to a friend who has invited her to a party to which she does not wish to go. No father can teach his son that lying is wrong if the son discovers his father shaming the truth in order to "put over" a business deal. Mere talk about truth doesn't make honesty any more than mere talk about money makes financiers.

Stanley Jones tells of a flower that grows in the West Indies which, if taken by itself, gives off a very disagreeable odor, but mingled with the other smells of the jungle has a pleasant smell. So it is with piety and pleasure-seeking, with money and manners, with work and play. An over accent on any one will spoil the atmosphere of a home but a proper accent on all will make an atmosphere redolent of health and happiness.

Burgess Children's Stories

THE QUEER PELLET.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Who what he sees doth understand Increasing knowledge doth command.—Old Mother Nature.

Several times when he had been out in the evening Farmer Brown's Boy had heard strange sounds unlike any he ever had heard before. They were not always alike. In fact they varied considerably. He had guessed that they were made by an Owl hooting, but he could think of no one else, but still he was puzzled. Never had he heard Hooty the Great Horned Owl or Spooky the Screech Owl or any other member of the family with whom he was acquainted make such noises.

Then one morning when he was sweeping the barn floor he picked up a curious thing. It was a large pellet made of small bones rolled up in fur. Farmer Brown's Boy picked up that pellet and on his face was a look of puzzlement. He had planned to find out what it was, but he had found out long ago that those bones were the bones of a Mouse and the fur was the fur of a Mouse, and that this was all that remained of a Mouse that had been eaten by an Owl. He knew that bones and fur and feathers cannot be digested, so Old Mother Nature has planned to make a pellet for all members of the Owl family that the things they cannot digest in their stomachs are rolled together in pellets and these the owl drops from its mouth just as you or I would spit out the seeds of an orange or a cherry.

Vanishing Profits

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

The moral of this story is that when you can see the trick which will defeat the contract waiting only for you to lead the card, it is just as well to take it unless you are convinced beyond the peradventure of a doubt that you will get it later somehow. Sometimes even the surest tricks have a way of disappearing through the application of the squeeze and it is always better to be safe, content with a small profit, than to reach after a greater one, only to find it vanish into thin air.

Neither side vulnerable.

The Bidding:

South West North East
4♠ Pass Pass Pass

Against South's ambitious contract, West opened the Queen of clubs. The Declarer did not play the King in Dummy, but the suit was continued until the third round, when South trumped. South now led the Queen of diamonds and West won this trick with the Ace. The Ace of hearts, if taken, now would be the setting trick, but West, unaware of South's unusual distribution, elected to play for a two trick set rather than be content with a mere 50 points. In order to gracefully throw the lead and wishful also of placing the lead in the Dummy, West led a trump. West wished to make it easy for South to permit him to cash his heart tricks. South now, however, took his only chance, desperate though it was. He did not permit the spade King to hold the trick, but overtook with the Ace, hoping the adverse trumps were divided 2-2. He then continued to lead trumps until the following situation developed:

♠ 10 6 5 2
♥ 8 5 4
♦ 8 7 4
♣ 9 7 4

♠ 10 6 5 2
♥ 8 5 4
♦ 8 7 4
♣ 9 7 4

It will be noticed that West now is hopelessly squeezed. To discard the Ace of hearts would establish the King in the closed hand, while to discard a diamond would permit South to overtake with the King. Through over-greediness West pre-empted South with a game.

RESTFUL SLEEP

for FRETFUL, FEVERISH CHILD

...with Castoria's regulation

When your child tosses and cries out in his sleep, it means he is not comfortable. It may be an overloaded stomach, a starting cold, a little fever.

More often than not the trouble is that poisonous waste matter is not being carried off as it should be. Bowels need help—mild, gentle help—but effective. Just the kind Castoria gives.

Castoria, you know, is a pure vegetable preparation made especially for children's ailments. It contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. And children take it without coaxing. They like its taste.

Don't let your child's rest—and your own—be interrupted. A prompt dose of Castoria will urge stubborn little bowels to act. Then come relaxed comfort and restful sleep! You'll know genuine Castoria—by the name Chas. H. Fletcher on the package.

Miss Elizabeth Lei Rice Weds Calhoun H. Young in Union, S. C.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sedgwick Rice, of Fayetteville, N. Y., announce the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Lei Rice, to Calhoun Hunter Young, of Union, S. C., which took place Tuesday evening, February 9, in place Young, of Union, S. C., at the residence of the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. W. F. Gilman, Mrs. George Hardin, the former Miss Sally Kellogg, of Atlanta, was the only attendant.

Beautiful Bride.
The beautiful bride was gowned in white broad satin embroidered in pearls, which was worn by Mrs. Gilman at her marriage more than 25 years ago. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses tied with the matching shade of gauze ribbon.

Mrs. Young was graduated from Margaret Hall, in Kentucky, and later attended, for two years, the University of Kentucky, being a popular member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma society. She is the elder daughter of her parents, having a sister, Miss Katherine Rice, of Fayetteville, N. Y., and is the namesake and godchild of Mrs. Frank Mason, and her sister, the late Mrs. James N. Ellis. Mrs. Young is a lineal descendant of Isaac Allerton, of the Mayflower, Robert Cushman, Robert Royce and General Robert Sedgwick, of New England, the Bollings and connecting Virginia families.

Attended Oglethorpe.

Mr. Young is the youngest son of the late Mrs. Garlington Young, of Union, S. C., and is a brother of Mrs. W. F. Gilman, of Union; Mrs. O. Barnett, of Spartanburg; Mrs. Edward Sloan Jr., of Greenville, S. C.; and Lawrence Young, of Chicago, Ill. He is a descendant of John C. Calhoun, vice president of the United States from 1825 to 1832, and he belongs to the Garlington, Hunter, Ball and Mason families of Virginia. He was graduated from Oglethorpe University in 1926 and was a popular member of the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity, and he is connected with the Helden Manufacturing Company, of Atlanta, Georgia, where he is now in New Orleans, La., on their honeymoon and upon their return they will reside in Atlanta, and will be acquisitions to the young married couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Rice, parents of the bride, have visited in Atlanta several times as the guests of the venerable Mr. and Mrs. Young. Their most recent visit to this city was in early October, when, accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Young, they visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mason, when Miss Leila Venable Mason married Thomas Eldridge. They were guests also of Mr. and Mrs. Priestley Orme, at Mont Rest, their home at Stone Mountain.

Miss Bryant Hostess.

Miss Lucy Bryant Bryant will be hostess at a children's party, honoring her birthday, this afternoon at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Davis, on West Peachtree street.

The hostess will be assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Walter Gordon Bryant, and her grandmothers, Mrs. Davis, invited are 50 friends of the hostess among younger circles of society.

Mrs. Davis Honored

At Bible Class Tea.

Mrs. W. E. Davis, of Princeton, N. Y., was honored with a lovely tea by the Young Woman's Bible class, of the Central Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon in the library of the church.

Mrs. W. E. Davis, the honor guest; Mrs. F. W. Simpson, Mrs. Kate White, Otis Brown, Elizabeth Sawtell, Marie Peek, Ruby Hall and Opal McCall were in the receiving line.

Mrs. W. E. Davis, who was the former pastor of the church, was assisted in serving by Mrs. J. Lee Tedder, Mrs. J. S. Dickert and Miss Leona Stillman.

A feature of the occasion was a guest book in which the guests were asked to register and write a message to Dr. W. E. Davis, who was the former pastor of the church.

Others present were Dr. Stuart Olesby and Mrs. Olesby, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Harvey, Mesdames W. T. Todd, T. D. Thompson, J. E. Rhodes, Minnie Brown, C. C. Groves, Gordon Nash, Meredith Collier, W. U. Cotton, J. H. Singleton, Mrs. C. A. Hansen, W. A. Upchurch, J. A. Reeves, I. H. Lindsay, W. R. McGrath, R. C. Brenner, L. A. Parnell, Misses Harriet Thomas, Clara Bruce, Misses Boyd, Dallas Dumas, Hannah Evans, Almeda Henderson, Sue Patterson, Ruby Hall, Frances Tompkins, Leila Patterson, Vannie Payne.

Among others who have entertained Mrs. Davis during her visit here are Mrs. Frank Lake, Mrs. B. R. Vann, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. McDonald, Mrs. C. Woodard, S. H. Avery, Carl Cathers, Florence Higgins, W. H. Acree, Gilbert Smith, O. E. Acree, Leslie Williams, S. A. Wix, Charles Cripps, and J. R. Higgins.

Fidelis Class.

Fidelis class of Capitol View Baptist church met Tuesday evening in the classroom at the church. Plans were made for the future and a nominating committee was appointed to name officers for the next six months. Resignation of the third vice president, Mrs. T. C. Robinson, was accepted with regret.

Those present were Miss Kate Hamerscheidt, Mesdames M. H. Dameron, W. C. Avery, D. A. Hittell, O. C. Woodard, S. H. Avery, Carl Cathers, Florence Higgins, W. H. Acree, Gilbert Smith, O. E. Acree, Leslie Williams, S. A. Wix, Charles Cripps, and J. R. Higgins.

TARZAN AND THE ANT MEN No. 16

To these young Alai, Tarzan was no more than an antelope or some other creature their mother, The First Woman, had brought them to feed upon. They would not, however, have thought of eating him had there been other food. The oldest girl knew that he had been brought there to be the mate of The First Woman. In common with the other women of this primitive race, she hunted a new mate each season among the forest and jungle, where the timid male things lived their solitary lives except for the brief weeks that they were held captive by their stronger women.

The girls at a similar age were taken to the maternal cave where they lived until they succeeded in capturing a mate. After that the girls took up their abode in separate caves. They might even, the next season, become rivals with their mothers for the same man. The building of the stone shelters and corrals in which the males and children were kept was the only community activity in which the women engaged. This they did alone, since the males would have escaped into the forest had they been released to take part in the construction.
